Traffic Toll Exceeds 200 As Rate Rises

Should Be Warning To Every Motorist, Safety Council Says

The National Safety Council said Sunday the country's holiday traffic death rate appeared to be on the upswing as the Labor Day weekend went past the halfway mark.

"The toll seems to be increasing its rate," a council spokesman said. "This should serve as a warning to every driver to slow down and double his care."

Fatalities were recorded from 6 p.m., local time Friday, and the three-day holiday count ends at midnight Monday.

The council estimated traffic deaths would total 420 for the 72-hour period, down 25 from the 445 total for the same period last year. On the last three-day holiday period this year — Independence Day — there were 370 traffic casualties.

Sunday's toll included six persons who met a fiery death in a head-on collision south of Newport, Ark.

Jordan Offers Arab Republic Peace Terms

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)—Authoritative sources said Sunday that Jordan has offered to resume diplomatic relations with the United Arab Republic on condition that Egypt and Syria halt radio attaiks on Jordan and permit this country to re - open its supply routes to Lebanon.

The sources said the conditions were posed by Jordanian Premier Samir Rifai in his three-eay talks here last week with United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

Hammarskjold left here Friday for Geneva but is due to return to the Middle East Sept. 3. He will confer with U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser in Cairo on means of implementing the Arab-sponsored U. N. resolution on the Middle East.

The resolution pledged 10 Arab nations to non-interference in each other's internal affairs. But since then both Syrians and Egyptians have resumed a bitter radio campaign against Jordan's King Hussein.

This campaign has openly threatened Hussein with the same fate that befell his late cousin, King Faisal of Iraq, when the army overthrew the Baghdad royal regime on July 14.

Newsman Expelled

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Brian Wright, correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, was expelled from Jordan Sunday.

The British newsman said he was given no reason for the sudden expulsion but thought it might be for a story he wrote several days ago in which he described King Hussein as considerably more popular than Premier Samir Rifai.

Symington Says Billions Wasted On Defense Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) charged Sunday that this country has poured from $6,500,000,000 to $7,500,000,000 into one weapons system which is "totally unnecessary from the standpoint of future war."

Symington, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a persistent critic of the administration's defense policies, made the charge "without mentioning the field" involved, apparently for security reasons.

However, he later criticized what he described as "point defense" against missiles. He said it is unrealistic to depend on "ability to shoot down something with say a 50 or 100 mile range" when a bomber 200 miles off "could shoot an air-to-ground missile."

"And yet we are spending a great many billion dollars in that type and character of defense," Symington said in a filmed television interview with Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La.).

Symington said that "there isn't any question" about the United States being behind Russia in the ballistics missile field.

But further, he said, the U. S. Army "is in an almost hopeless situation" in comparison to the Communist ground forces of the Soviet Union and China. The Russians also lead, he said, in submarines and light jet bombers and fighters.

British, Iceland "Fleets" Ready For Showdown

"Fish War" Zero Hour Nears

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Six tiny Icelandic ships sailed forth Sunday to challenge a British armada of gunboats and trawlers in one of the most fantastic fish fights in history.

The big question was: will these two traditionally friendly nations clash at sea and knock a strategic hole in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO)?

At midnight, Iceland's ban on trawler fishing within 12 miles of its shores goes into effect. Britain says the ban is illegal and her trawlers will continue to fish in those waters.

(In London, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan suggested that the dispute might be handed to the U.N. General Assembly when it opens its session Sept. 16.

(Macmillan's statement raised the possibility of another U.N. law of the sea conference. He said, however, Britain is still willing to accept plans proposed by a NATO technical conference in Paris last week. He said the plans provide substantial advantages for Icelandic fishermen.)

Iceland says hundreds of foreign trawlers working the waters close to its shores are ruining its fishing grounds upon which the national economy depends.

But at the stroke of midnight Britain will have scores of trawlers within the 12-mile zone ready to fish. Backing them up will be armed frigates of the Royal Navy.

The gunboats and trawlers, about 50 in number, were already gathered at three places Sunday afternoon, all within the 12-mile limit. Fifty additional trawlers were reported on the way.

The fishing spots are off Breidafjord, 100 miles northwest of Reykjavik, a region off the southeast tip of Iceland about 17 miles away, and off Glettinganes, on the northeast coast.

Opposing the British challenge are Iceland's six coast guard vessels, small but armed.

The Thor, the biggest, had steel shields fitted around its gunnery positions Saturday night. Also ready to take part are two airplanes, one of them borrowed from a private Icelandic airline. Iceland has no army, navy or air force.

The Icelanders have not announced what they plan to do to violators.

The United States has asked Britain and Iceland to show moderation.

Scandinavian countries and West Germany have ordered their trawlers to obey the law. Standing on the sidelines are Russia and the United States.

Russia has recognized Iceland's new law. The United States with between 5,000 and 6,000 servicemen based 25 miles from Reykjavik at Keflavik make up what is known as the Icelandic Defense Force. But it is not likely to defend Iceland in this affair.

Faubus "Probably" Will Close School If Negroes Admitted

Preservation Of Peace Main Concern

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Sunday he "probably" will close Central High School if it is integrated and he finds closure necessary to "preserve the peace and order of the community."

Faubus appeared on the CBS television program "Face the Nation."

He said he was required at the Newport, R.I., conference last September to say that the 1954 Supreme Court decision on integration was the law of the land and must be obeyed as a basis for negotiations with the President.

A newman asked if he had changed his views since that statement.

"I really haven't changed my views," he said. "I was required to issue that statement as a basis for negotiations with the President."

Faubus said if the Supreme Court upholds the 2½-year "cooling off" period approved by Federal Judge Harry J. Lemley, he could not say whether integration would be any easier in 1961.

"But it would give the community a chance to create an attitude of acquiesence or acceptance," he said. "Then I would have no interest."

Faubus has praised Judge Lemley's decision but criticized the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals for overturning it.

Newsmen asked him if he thought a governor had the right "to pick and choose" whether to abide by a federal court's decision.

"Only so far as it affects the peace and order of the state," Faubus replied.

"There are many precedents for this," he continued. "For instance, Abraham Lincoln disagreed with the Dred Scott Decision."

He said "millions of Americans" do not believe the Supreme Court decision has a basis in law because Congress has never passed legislation on the integration issue.

Under questioning, he said if Congress passed such a law, it would be "the law of the land but there would still be a difficulty of enforcement.

"No law can be enforced unless there is enough support from the people," Faubus said.

Hurricane Ella Whips Caribbean

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) Ella, the fifth tropical storm of the season, whipped itself into hurricane force Sunday as it lashed Caribbean waters about 200 miles southwest of here.

The storm, packing winds up to 85 m.p.h., was described by the Weather Bureau as a small hurricane. It is moving west at 18 m.p.h., about 1,200 miles southeast of Miami, Fla.

The Weather Bureau said it was too early to determine the future course of the storm, but it is expected to curve and could swing into Cuba and possibly the Florida Coast.

Soviets Talk Tough In Far East Crisis

Pravda Warns U.S. Russia Would Aid Peiping In Hot War

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Sunday flung its toughest and most specific challenge to the United States since a Far Eastern crisis began brewing over Formosa and China's offshore islands.

Pravda warned that the Soviet Union will go to the aid of Red China if there is a clash over the islands and that such a clash would inevitably spread to "other areas" — in other words into a world war.

The warning was linked to charges that the United States was plotting "aggression" against Red China. It made plain that any United States interference with a Red Chinese attempt to "liberate" Formosa and the offshore islands would be regarded here as an interference in "an internal affair of the Chinese people."

Semi-Official Statement

Pravda's editorial was signed by "Observer". Such statements in the Communist party newspaper normally carry the full weight of the Kremlin.

"The organizers of armed provocations against the Chinese People's Republic should not lull themselves by thinking they will be able to localize such an event," said the newspaper. "Any aggression by the United States in the Far East would inevitably sharpen the whole international situation and lead to a spread of war to other areas with all the consequences that this entails."

Moral, Material Aid Pledged

Declaring that the Soviet Union "will give the Chinese People's Republic the necessary moral and material help in her just struggle," Pravda said: "Those who are thinking of armed provocation must not forget that the Chinese People's Republic is not a little defenseless state where American Marines can land with impunity. . . . It has something to defend and the necessary means to defend it."

"The Soviet people and all the people of the mighty Socialist (Communist) camp support the just struggle of the fraternal Chinese people to re-establish their lawful rights to the island of Taiwan (Formosa) and other offshore islands," Pravda continued.

Embarrassing, Eh What, Old Chap?

ALCESTER, England (AP) — A crowd of visitors stood in the dusk in the grounds of Ragley Hall near here waiting to see the ancient and stately home lit up by floodlights.

Instead, a light came on in one window only — and there stood the marquis without a stitch on.

Hugh Edward Conway Seymour, 28, eighth marquis of Herlford — pronounced Harford — explained how the 200 people saw more than they were supposed to see for their 2 shillings 6 pence — 46 cents — admission.

"We have a floodlighting display every evening," the marquis said. "I went to my dressing room and switched on the light.

"I stripped, quite forgetting about the visitors waiting for the floodlights to come on."

Tong To Advise Chiang

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek has appointed Hollington K. Tong, outgoing Chinese Nationalist ambassador to the United States, to be one of his senior advisers.

Tong will thus join a select group of 13 men. He is being succeeded at Washington by former Foreign Minister George Yeh.

Last Of Labor Day's Founders

Leo Bamberger, shown relaxing at his Ocean City, N. J., home, is the sole survivor of the historic gathering in New York in 1882 that started movement to set aside a day to honor working people. Some others in the group were Peter J. McGuire, generally considered founder of Labor Day; Samuel Gompers, founder of AFL, and Henry George, single tax advocate. Bamberger, who will be 90 years old tomorrow, is also reputed to be oldest veteran of photo-engraving industry and the one holding longest unbroken union membership. (Story at bottom of page)

GOP Candidates Still Consider Adams Liability

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional candidates have quietly resigned themselves to the belief that President Eisenhower intends to keep Sherman Adams on the job indefinitely.

Although Adams' name has faded from the front pages, many Republicans believe his past acceptance of expensive favors from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine remains a political liability to them as long as he continues in the White House as Eisenhower's chief aide.

The feeling has grown among the GOP candidates, however, that even if Adams bowed out now the action would come too late to erase any tarnish left on the administration's record by the Goldfine disclosures.

Democrats are loaded for bear on Adams. They have documented his and Eisenhower's attacks on alleged corruption in the Truman administration. They have listed Adams' and Eisenhower's promises to clean up Washington.

Whether the Democrats open fire on a national scale may depend somewhat on the outcome of the Maine senatorial race Sept. 8. There, Democratic Gov. Edmund S. Muskie is contesting for the seat of GOP Sen. Frederick G. Payne, a long-time associate of Goldfine.

Payne has admitted he got an unsecured loan of $3,500 from Goldfine on which no repayment has been made, that he permitted Goldfine to pay hotel bills for him, and accepted a vicuna coat.

While not much has been made of this in the Maine campaign, Democrats think it may be a silent issue that could help Muskie win in a state which sometimes elects Democratic governors but sends few members of that party to the Senate.

Fingold Dies Day After Launching Mass. Campaign

CONCORD, Mass. (UPI) — Massachusetts Republican Atty. Gen. George Fingold dropped dead of a heart attack Sunday on the day after opening his "no cream puff" battle to capture the governorship from incumbent Democrat Foster Furcolo.

Fingold, 49, died while reading Sunday newspapers in the back yard of his home. His wife and son, Jack, were with him. A family physician pronounced him dead.

The death of Fingold, who gained more favor at the polls than even Massachusetts' Democratic U. S. Sen. John F. Kennedy, threw state Republican leaders into confusion. He was considered the GOP's best hope of unseating a rising Democratic political wave in Massachusetts.

The family announced tentative plans for a funeral Tuesday at nearby Brookline.

Saturday night, at east Boston, Fingold had formally opened his campaign with a violent blast at Furcolo's administration, and he said the coming gubernatorial race would be "no cream puff." Furcolo reached after Fingold's sudden death, said he was "shocked."

Eden's Niece To Wed Ferryboat Mechanic

LONDON (UPI)—Amelia Eden, 25-year-old niece of former Prime Minister Anthony Eden, will marry an Italian ferryboat mechanic next Sunday, her mother said.

Amelia's fiance is Giovanni Borelli, 27, who works for $32 a week on a ferry that plies between Naples and the Isle of Ischia.

Amelia is the daughter of Sir Timothy Eden, elder brother of Sir Anthony. She and Porelli met when she visitel Ischia on a vacation three years ago.

Plane Crash Kills Two

BOWLING GREEN, O. (UPI)—Two occupants of a small private plane were killed Sunday in a crash one mile north of here.

The State Highway Patrol listed the victims as Dan Jones, 25, Bowling Green, and his passenger, Myron Jones, his father.

Geneva Atomic Exhibit Opened By Ike And Dag

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI)—President Eisenhower and Dag Hammarskjold opened history's greatest atomic exhibit Sunday.

Speaking in a message tape recorded over a 4,000-mile connection with Washington, Eisenhower told more than 5,000 scientists gathered for the second international Atoms-for-Peace Conference that the atom is "already serving humanity in many ways."

The President called for a "fruitful exchange of views" among the 66 nations taking part in the conference and added:

"My country, which initiated the project of this scientific conference, will continue to share its resources and knowledge with other countries to the end that the fullest benefits of nuclear energy may be enjoyed by all."

Eisenhower said "great strides" had been made in the atoms-for-peace field since the last Geneva atomic conference of 1955. He expressed confidence that all participating nations would "press forward to transform this great natural force from an instrument of destruction to a power for good in our own day and for our children to come after us."

The President's statement followed an Anglo-American announcement Saturday that all secrecy labels were being removed from U. S. and British projects for harnessing the H-bomb for peaceful purposes.

Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary-general who interrupted a Middle East peace mission to fly to Geneva Saturday night, said Sunday the purpose of the parley is to apply new scientific methods.

The two-week conference officially begins Monday, but mammoth exhibits of nuclear power devices covering 200,000 square feet of floor space in two large halls were opened to the public Sunday.

Chinese Ease Up Shelling Of Quemoys

7th Fleet Buildup Continues; Brucker Meets With Chiang

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Chinese Reds eased up on the Quemoys Sunday but trained six big guns on 40-acre Tungting Island off Amoy, the Defense Ministry reported.

The ministry said 80 Nationalist soldiers were killed or wounded on the Quemoys in a 24-hour period ending at 6 p.m. Saturday.

(This was the second time the Nationalists have given out casualty figures on Quemoy. The figures were for a day when shelling was unusually light. The Nationalists announced more than 200 soldiers were killed or wounded in the opening 40,000-shell bombardment of Aug. 23.)

A 70-shell barrage on Tungting was small in contrast to other bombardments but it was considered significant. Tungting, guarding the sea entrance to the important Red port of Amoy, is a possible target for a Communist invasion which the Nationalists say can come at any time.

Tungting Barren Rock

The Defense Ministry said that up to 7:15 p.m. Sunday the Red guns had fired only about 500 shells on the Nationalist offshore outposts. This was about the same score as Saturday. The bombardment in the two days was but a fraction of the number of shells fired in an hour's time in previous bombardments in the 10-day-old artillery war.

Sunday's shelling of Tungting was the island's worst since it first came under attack last Monday.

The island is barren rock — a former lighthouse station now used by the Nationalists to observe Red shipping in and out of Amoy. The island is nine miles from the mainland and 17 miles south of Quemoy.

A Red seizure of Tungting probably would be a forerunner to the invasion of the three Tan islets. They, too, guard against Amoy shipping.

Capture of these islands by the Reds would help the Communists harass the Nationalist sea line to Big and Little Quemoy, making them more vulnerable to seizure of these small islands for propaganda purposes. The Reds would hope to cut into the morale of the Nationalists on Formosa.

U.S. Bolsters 7th Fleet

Moreover, they would use the crisis thus created as an opportunity to reopen a drive to win a seat in the U.N. General Assembly which goes into regular session in September. At the least, they might promote an international conference on the Far East in which they would expect to be represented and thus gain some measure of international recognition.

The slackening of the Red artillery offensive came at a time when the United States was speeding jet fighters and warships to the Far East to bolster the already reinforced 7th Fleet.

U.S. Secretary of the Army Wilber Brucker met with Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek after a Sunday visit to Nationalist troops on central Formosa.

Chiang is reported to have asked Brucker for more military aid, particularly in the form of aircraft to counter the MIG17s and possibly MIG19s which the Russians have given the Reds.

Only Survivor Of Labor Day's Founders 90 Tomorrow

OCEAN CITY, N. J. (AP) — This boy tackled a man's job 76 years ago. He did it so well, side by side with his pioneering elders, that he stands today as a symbol of what Labor Day means.

Leo Bamberger is the only survivor of that historic gathering which in 1882 started the movement to set aside a day honoring working people.

He will be 90 years old on Tuesday, increasing his joy at this holidaytime.

He has other distinctions, too:

He is reputed to be the oldest veteran of the photo-engraving industry and the one holding the longest unbroken union membership.

He is the oldest alumnus of Cooper Union College in New York.

He is the originator of Ocean City's much-publicized baby parade, a pet project for many years.

The Leo Bamberger of 1882 made up in ardor and ambition what he lacked in years. A slightly built, serious lad he held his own with Samuel Gompers, the labor leader who fathered the AFL; Henry George, economist famed for his advocacy of the single tax; and other stalwarts. Gompers was then 32, George 43. Leo Bamberger was 14.

He started as a photo engraver in New York while he was still in school. He has clear recollections of a basement shop, long hours in the heat of the city's summers. No electric lights then. An engraver had to depend on sunlight to make reproductions.

"I'm a born New Yorker, but you can have the place," he said. "I guess I always yearned for a little less mess and mass. I am not a man for confusion. This is the life. Summers here with my two sons and their families, and the rest of the year living in Philadelphia."

One of his sons, J. Leiter, recently retired as president of Bamberger Narrow Fabrics Co. of New York. The other, Henry, a former officer in the Army Engineers, is with the Frankfort Arsenal in Philadelphia.

Back on photo engraving, the elder Bamberger said he had much to do with the development of the industry, having invented certain processes.

"But no man is on his own," he asserted. "We all helped. Labor and industry should be that way. A team."

That led inevitably into memories of 1882. The Knights of Labor, 20 leaders in all, met that year in New York. Besides Gompers and George, there were Peter J. McGuire, of the Camden (N. J.) carpenters union. McGuire generally is held to be the founder of Labor Day.

The 19 men and a boy proposed that a day be dedicated as a national holiday "to those who from rude nature have delved and carved all the grandeur that we behold." The federation of trades and labor unions approved, asked Congress to make it the first Monday of September. Prodded by President Cleveland, Congress got around to doing so in 1892.

Bamberger set up his own photo engraving business in Philadelphia in 1903. He married Annie Behrend of Baltimore that same year. In 1938, at 70, he retired—if you can call retirement an immersion in a flock of activities.

Changing Times Shown In Occupational Trends

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are 32 times as many lady bartenders now as there were in grandfather's day. The number of male streetcar and bus conductors has dropped by half. Thousands of men and women work at such new-fangled occupations as operating radios and piloting airplanes, where none did half a century ago.

The Census Bureau put out these statistics Sunday in a Labor Day release. It said the occupational trends of Americans between 1900 and 1950 have undergone a striking change.

The ratio of the number of people working to the total population remained about the same. Nearly 59 millions persons were listed as having occupations in 1950, out of a national population of 151 millions, compared with 29 million workers at the turn of the century when the population was half as large.

The total of male workers climbed from 24 to 42½ million over this period. But the number of females earning a living jumped more than threefold, from 5,319,397 to 16,445,105.

In 1900 the numbers of unskilled workers — 3½ millions — and semiskilled workers were about equal, and much larger than the number of skilled craftsmen. By 1950 the unskilled were outnumbered 3-1 by the semiskilled — 12 million — and by better than 2-1 by the skilled — 8½ million.

While the number of manual workers and service workers doubled along with the population, the white collar total quadrupled. The only major occupation to show a big drop over the half-century was farm workers, down from 11 million to 7 million.

Symington Says Billions Wasted On Defense Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) charged Sunday that this country has poured from $6,500,000,000 to $7,500,000,000 into one weapons system which is "totally unnecessary from the standpoint of future war."

Symington, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a persistent critic of the administration's defense policies, made the charge "without mentioning the field" involved, apparently for security reasons.

However, he later criticized what he described as "point defense" against missiles. He said it is unrealistic to depend on "ability to shoot down something with say a 50 or 100 mile range" when a bomber 200 miles off "could shoot an air-to-ground missile."

"And yet we are spending a great many billion dollars in that type and character of defense," Symington said in a filmed television interview with Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La.).

Symington said that "there isn't any question" about the United States being behind Russia in the ballistics missile field.

But further, he said, the U. S. Army "is in an almost hopeless situation" in comparison to the Communist ground forces of the Soviet Union and China. The Russians also lead, he said, in submarines and light jet bombers and fighters.

Soviets Talk Tough In Far East Crisis

Pravda Warns U.S. Russia Would Aid Peiping In Hot War

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Sunday flung its toughest and most specific challenge to the United States since a Far Eastern crisis began brewing over Formosa and China's offshore islands.

Pravda warned that the Soviet Union will go to the aid of Red China if there is a clash over the islands and that such a clash would inevitably spread to "other areas" — in other words into a world war.

The warning was linked to charges that the United States was plotting "aggression" against Red China. It made plain that any United States interference with a Red Chinese attempt to "liberate" Formosa and the offshore islands would be regarded here as an interference in "an internal affair of the Chinese people."

Semi-Official Statement

Pravda's editorial was signed by "Observer". Such statements in the Communist party newspaper normally carry the full weight of the Kremlin.

"The organizers of armed provocations against the Chinese People's Republic should not lull themselves by thinking they will be able to localize such an event," said the newspaper. "Any aggression by the United States in the Far East would inevitably sharpen the whole international situation and lead to a spread of war to other areas with all the consequences that this entails."

Moral, Material Aid Pledged

Declaring that the Soviet Union "will give the Chinese People's Republic the necessary moral and material help in her just struggle," Pravda said: "Those who are thinking of armed provocation must not forget that the Chinese People's Republic is not a little defenseless state where American Marines can land with impunity. . . . It has something to defend and the necessary means to defend it."

"The Soviet people and all the people of the mighty Socialist (Communist) camp support the just struggle of the fraternal Chinese people to re-establish their lawful rights to the island of Taiwan (Formosa) and other offshore islands," Pravda continued.

Embarrassing, Eh What, Old Chap?

ALCESTER, England (AP) — A crowd of visitors stood in the dusk in the grounds of Ragley Hall near here waiting to see the ancient and stately home lit up by floodlights.

Instead, a light came on in one window only — and there stood the marquis without a stitch on.

Hugh Edward Conway Seymour, 28, eighth marquis of Herlford — pronounced Harford — explained how the 200 people saw more than they were supposed to see for their 2 shillings 6 pence — 46 cents — admission.

"We have a floodlighting display every evening," the marquis said. "I went to my dressing room and switched on the light.

"I stripped, quite forgetting about the visitors waiting for the floodlights to come on."

Tong To Advise Chiang

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek has appointed Hollington K. Tong, outgoing Chinese Nationalist ambassador to the United States, to be one of his senior advisers.

Tong will thus join a select group of 13 men. He is being succeeded at Washington by former Foreign Minister George Yeh.

Last Of Labor Day's Founders

Leo Bamberger, shown relaxing at his Ocean City, N. J., home, is the sole survivor of the historic gathering in New York in 1882 that started movement to set aside a day to honor working people. Some others in the group were Peter J. McGuire, generally considered founder of Labor Day; Samuel Gompers, founder of AFL, and Henry George, single tax advocate. Bamberger, who will be 90 years old tomorrow, is also reputed to be oldest veteran of photo-engraving industry and the one holding longest unbroken union membership. (Story at bottom of page)

GOP Candidates Still Consider Adams Liability

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional candidates have quietly resigned themselves to the belief that President Eisenhower intends to keep Sherman Adams on the job indefinitely.

Although Adams' name has faded from the front pages, many Republicans believe his past acceptance of expensive favors from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine remains a political liability to them as long as he continues in the White House as Eisenhower's chief aide.

The feeling has grown among the GOP candidates, however, that even if Adams bowed out now the action would come too late to erase any tarnish left on the administration's record by the Goldfine disclosures.

Democrats are loaded for bear on Adams. They have documented his and Eisenhower's attacks on alleged corruption in the Truman administration. They have listed Adams' and Eisenhower's promises to clean up Washington.

Whether the Democrats open fire on a national scale may depend somewhat on the outcome of the Maine senatorial race Sept. 8. There, Democratic Gov. Edmund S. Muskie is contesting for the seat of GOP Sen. Frederick G. Payne, a long-time associate of Goldfine.

Payne has admitted he got an unsecured loan of $3,500 from Goldfine on which no repayment has been made, that he permitted Goldfine to pay hotel bills for him, and accepted a vicuna coat.

While not much has been made of this in the Maine campaign, Democrats think it may be a silent issue that could help Muskie win in a state which sometimes elects Democratic governors but sends few members of that party to the Senate.

Fingold Dies Day After Launching Mass. Campaign

CONCORD, Mass. (UPI) — Massachusetts Republican Atty. Gen. George Fingold dropped dead of a heart attack Sunday on the day after opening his "no cream puff" battle to capture the governorship from incumbent Democrat Foster Furcolo.

Fingold, 49, died while reading Sunday newspapers in the back yard of his home. His wife and son, Jack, were with him. A family physician pronounced him dead.

The death of Fingold, who gained more favor at the polls than even Massachusetts' Democratic U. S. Sen. John F. Kennedy, threw state Republican leaders into confusion. He was considered the GOP's best hope of unseating a rising Democratic political wave in Massachusetts.

The family announced tentative plans for a funeral Tuesday at nearby Brookline.

Saturday night, at east Boston, Fingold had formally opened his campaign with a violent blast at Furcolo's administration, and he said the coming gubernatorial race would be "no cream puff." Furcolo reached after Fingold's sudden death, said he was "shocked."

Eden's Niece To Wed Ferryboat Mechanic

LONDON (UPI)—Amelia Eden, 25-year-old niece of former Prime Minister Anthony Eden, will marry an Italian ferryboat mechanic next Sunday, her mother said.

Amelia's fiance is Giovanni Borelli, 27, who works for $32 a week on a ferry that plies between Naples and the Isle of Ischia.

Amelia is the daughter of Sir Timothy Eden, elder brother of Sir Anthony. She and Porelli met when she visitel Ischia on a vacation three years ago.

Plane Crash Kills Two

BOWLING GREEN, O. (UPI)—Two occupants of a small private plane were killed Sunday in a crash one mile north of here.

The State Highway Patrol listed the victims as Dan Jones, 25, Bowling Green, and his passenger, Myron Jones, his father.

Geneva Atomic Exhibit Opened By Ike And Dag

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI)—President Eisenhower and Dag Hammarskjold opened history's greatest atomic exhibit Sunday.

Speaking in a message tape recorded over a 4,000-mile connection with Washington, Eisenhower told more than 5,000 scientists gathered for the second international Atoms-for-Peace Conference that the atom is "already serving humanity in many ways."

The President called for a "fruitful exchange of views" among the 66 nations taking part in the conference and added:

"My country, which initiated the project of this scientific conference, will continue to share its resources and knowledge with other countries to the end that the fullest benefits of nuclear energy may be enjoyed by all."

Eisenhower said "great strides" had been made in the atoms-for-peace field since the last Geneva atomic conference of 1955. He expressed confidence that all participating nations would "press forward to transform this great natural force from an instrument of destruction to a power for good in our own day and for our children to come after us."

The President's statement followed an Anglo - American announcement Saturday that all secrecy labels were being removed from U. S. and British projects for harnessing the H - bomb for peaceful purposes.

Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary-general who interrupted a Middle East peace mission to fly to Geneva Saturday night, said Sunday the purpose of the parley is to apply new scientific methods.

The two-week conference officially begins Monday, but mammoth exhibits of nuclear power devices covering 200,000 square feet of floor space in two large halls were opened to the public Sunday.

Chinese Ease Up Shelling Of Quemoys

7th Fleet Buildup Continues; Brucker Meets With Chiang

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Chinese Reds eased up on the Quemoys Sunday but trained six big guns on 40-acre Tungting Island off Amoy, the Defense Ministry reported.

The ministry said 80 Nationalist soldiers were killed or wounded on the Quemoys in a 24-hour period ending at 6 p.m. Saturday.

(This was the second time the Nationalists have given out casualty figures on Quemoy. The figures were for a day when shelling was unusually light. The Nationalists announced more than 200 soldiers were killed or wounded in the opening 40,000-shell bombardment of Aug. 23.)

A 70-shell barrage on Tungting was small in contrast to other bombardments but it was considered significant. Tungting, guarding the sea entrance to the important Red port of Amoy, is a possible target for a Communist invasion which the Nationalists say can come at any time.

Tungting Barren Rock

The Defense Ministry said that up to 7:15 p.m. Sunday the Red guns had fired only about 500 shells on the Nationalist offshore outposts. This was about the same score as Saturday. The bombardment in the two days was but a fraction of the number of shells fired in an hour's time in previous bombardments in the 10-day-old artillery war.

Sunday's shelling of Tungting was the island's worst since it first came under attack last Monday.

The island is barren rock — a former lighthouse station now used by the Nationalists to observe Red shipping in and out of Amoy. The island is nine miles from the mainland and 17 miles south of Quemoy.

A Red seizure of Tungting probably would be a forerunner to the invasion of the three Tan islets. They, too, guard against Amoy shipping.

Capture of these islands by the Reds would help the Communists harass the Nationalist sea line to Big and Little Quemoy, making them more vulnerable to seizure of these small islands for propaganda purposes. The Reds would hope to cut into the morale of the Nationalists on Formosa.

U.S. Bolsters 7th Fleet

Moreover, they would use the crisis thus created as an opportunity to reopen a drive to win a seat in the U.N. General Assembly which goes into regular session in September. At the least, they might promote an international conference on the Far East in which they would expect to be represented and thus gain some measure of international recognition.

The slackening of the Red artillery offensive came at a time when the United States was speeding jet fighters and warships to the Far East to bolster the already reinforced 7th Fleet.

U.S. Secretary of the Army Wilber Brucker met with Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek after a Sunday visit to Nationalist troops on central Formosa.

Chiang is reported to have asked Brucker for more military aid, particularly in the form of aircraft to counter the MIG17s and possibly MIG19s which the Russians have given the Reds.

Only Survivor Of Labor Day's Founders 90 Tomorrow

OCEAN CITY, N. J. (AP) — This boy tackled a man's job 76 years ago. He did it so well, side by side with his pioneering elders, that he stands today as a symbol of what Labor Day means.

Leo Bamberger is the only survivor of that historic gathering which in 1882 started the movement to set aside a day honoring working people.

He will be 90 years old on Tuesday, increasing his joy at this holidaytime.

He has other distinctions, too:

He is reputed to be the oldest veteran of the photo-engraving industry and the one holding the longest unbroken union membership.

He is the oldest alumnus of Cooper Union College in New York.

He is the originator of Ocean City's much-publicized baby parade, a pet project for many years.

The Leo Bamberger of 1882 made up in ardor and ambition what he lacked in years. A slightly built, serious lad he held his own with Samuel Gompers, the labor leader who fathered the AFL; Henry George, economist famed for his advocacy of the single tax; and other stalwarts. Gompers was then 32, George 43. Leo Bamberger was 14.

He started as a photo engraver in New York while he was still in school. He has clear recollections of a basement shop, long hours in the heat of the city's summers. No electric lights then. An engraver had to depend on sunlight to make reproductions.

"I'm a born New Yorker, but you can have the place," he said. "I guess I always yearned for a little less mess and mass. I am not a man for confusion. This is the life. Summers here with my two sons and their families, and the rest of the year living in Philadelphia."

One of his sons, J. Leiter, recently retired as president of Bamberger Narrow Fabrics Co. of New York. The other, Henry, a former officer in the Army Engineers, is with the Frankfort Arsenal in Philadelphia.

Back on photo engraving, the elder Bamberger said he had much to do with the development of the industry, having invented certain processes.

"But no man is on his own," he asserted. "We all helped. Labor and industry should be that way. A team."

That led inevitably into memories of 1882. The Knights of Labor, 20 leaders in all, met that year in New York. Besides Gompers and George, there were Peter J. McGuire, of the Camden (N. J.) carpenters union. McGuire generally is held to be the founder of Labor Day.

The 19 men and a boy proposed that a day be dedicated as a national holiday "to those who from rude nature have delved and carved all the grandeur that we behold." The federation of trades and labor unions approved, asked Congress to make it the first Monday of September. Prodded by President Cleveland, Congress got around to doing so in 1892.

Bamberger set up his own photo engraving business in Philadelphia in 1903. He married Annie Behrend of Baltimore that same year. In 1938, at 70, he retired—if you can call retirement an immersion in a flock of activities.

Changing Times Shown In Occupational Trends

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are 32 times as many lady bartenders now as there were in grandfather's day. The number of male streetcar and bus conductors has dropped by half. Thousands of men and women work at such new-fangled occupations as operating radios and piloting airplanes, where none did half a century ago.

The Census Bureau put out these statistics Sunday in a Labor Day release. It said the occupational trends of Americans between 1900 and 1950 have undergone a striking change.

The ratio of the number of people working to the total population remained about the same. Nearly 59 millions persons were listed as having occupations in 1950, out of a national population of 151 millions, compared with 29 million workers at the turn of the century when the population was half as large.

The total of male workers climbed from 24 to 42½ million over this period. But the number of females earning a living jumped more than threefold, from 5,319,397 to 16,445,105.

In 1900 the numbers of unskilled workers — 3½ millions — and semiskilled workers were about equal, and much larger than the number of skilled craftsmen. By 1950 the unskilled were outnumbered 3-1 by the semiskilled — 12 million — and by better than 2-1 by the skilled — 8½ million.

While the number of manual workers and service workers doubled along with the population, the white collar total quadrupled. The only major occupation to show a big drop over the half-century was farm workers, down from 11 million to 7 million.

Ike Calls For Labor-Management Honesty

By The Associated Press

President Eisenhower called in a Labor Day statement Sunday for complete honesty and integrity in labor-management relations. And Secretary of Labor Mitchell urged union members to clean racketeers and hoodlums from their ranks.

Their statements came in the light of testimony over the past year before a Senate investigation committee of misuse of power and union funds in some labor organizations.

Eisenhower's statement was plainly an invitation for the next Congress to get busy and enact legislation to curb such abuses.

Mitchell said he was disappointed that the Congress just ended failed to act. He said "I have every hope that the succeeding Congress will see fit to do so." The labor secretary added that "until such help is available, however, labor's own efforts" to clean house must continue.

Eisenhower, vacationing at Newport, R.I., put out a traditional Labor Day message saying:

"The working men and women of America have successfully met every challenge set before them. Now they are faced with the task of maintaining both the intricate equipment of national defense, which is the strong right arm of peace, and manning the constantly improving system of national production, to which our standard of living is secured.

"It is my firm belief that they will meet these tasks with stamina and pride."

Right-To-Work Bills Opposed By Sen. Beall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md) came out Sunday against "the so-called right-to-work legislation." He also said he has supported many bills favored by the AFL-CIO.

Beall, running for re-election, said in a Labor Day statement he believes right-to-work legislation — outlawing the union shop —"would work to the disadvantage of labor, generally speaking."

President Eisenhower, he said, also opposes right-to-work bills.

With respect to his own labor record, Beall said the AFL-CIO is trying to obtain decent working conditions and adequate pay for the working man and to help preserve his living conditions.

"In line with this, I have supported the expanded Social Security program, the housing bills, a good fair labor standards act, aid for education, aid for school construction and many other measures designed to better the American way of life. . ."

Dept. Of Tidewater Fisheries Chief Inspector Dies

DEAL ISLAND, Md. (AP) — Robert Lee Shores, chief inspector of Maryland's Department of Tidewater Fisheries, died early Sunday at his home here.

Members of his family said he apparently suffered a heart attack. He died about 3:45 a. m.

Shores, 45, had headed Maryland's Tidewater Fisheries enforcement fleet of 43 boats and one aircraft since 1952. He had been with the department since 1946, serving as a district inspector and then area inspector on the Eastern Shore before moving into the top enforcement job.

As chief inspector he had supervision of Md. conservation laws on the huge Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries, including the once-troubled Potomac River where Md. inspectors shot it out with alleged oyster poachers from Va.

Md. Unemployment Took Drop In July

BALTIMORE (AP) — Unemployment dropped 6,400 in Maryland during July, but it was chiefly due to a start of the back-to-school movement.

The Department of Employment Security said a large number of students seeking work during the summer months have taken themselves off the "jobs wanted" list prior to hitting the books again.

Meanwhile, employment rose by 600 during July but it still was 22,000 below the same month of last year. The increase was credited mostly to a step-up in farming, food processing and other seasonal work.

The department reported that there were 200 on strike, or double the number out the preceding month.

Birmingham Cross Burnings Probed

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Police Sunday investigated cross burnings at several white high schools in this area on the eve of fall school terms.

Crosses were set on fire at two high schools and three elementary schools here Saturday night. Cross burnings occurred at five more schools at nearby Bessemer.

Police said there have been no reports that Negroes would try to enroll in the schools when they open next week.

The crosses were burned at about the same time Saturday night, which indicated that the demonstration was well coordinated, police said.

About three sets of quadruplets are born in the United States every year.

It's Official: Women Most Admire Men

NEW YORK (AP)—Women have known it all along of course, but now it has become officially established:

Women admire men more than they admire other women.

Men admire men more than they admire women.

This unanimity of opinion concerning the total admirability of the male proved out in a recent survey of 1,602 men and women of varying ages, occupations and geographical distribution through the nation.

Basically, the study—financed by the nation's Brewers Foundation but designed by a Columbia University professor—was made to find out whether the word "moderation" has pleasant connotations. (It has.) But the survey also turned up some tantalizing statistics concerning basic attitudes of men toward women and vice versa.

For instance, 65 per cent of the men said they most admired women. It will come as no surprise, however, to the gentle sex to learn that when a man does find a woman most admirable she is likely to be a good five years younger than the woman admired by other women.

Lest the gentlemen get too puffed up, however, it should be added quickly that female admiration for the male declines steadily from a high point reached when she is 21 to a low which comes when she's around 40—and stays steady thereafter.

Men, on the other hand, think pretty highly of their own sex until doubts begin to assail them at age 21. They do recover some of their good opinion of themselves in later years.

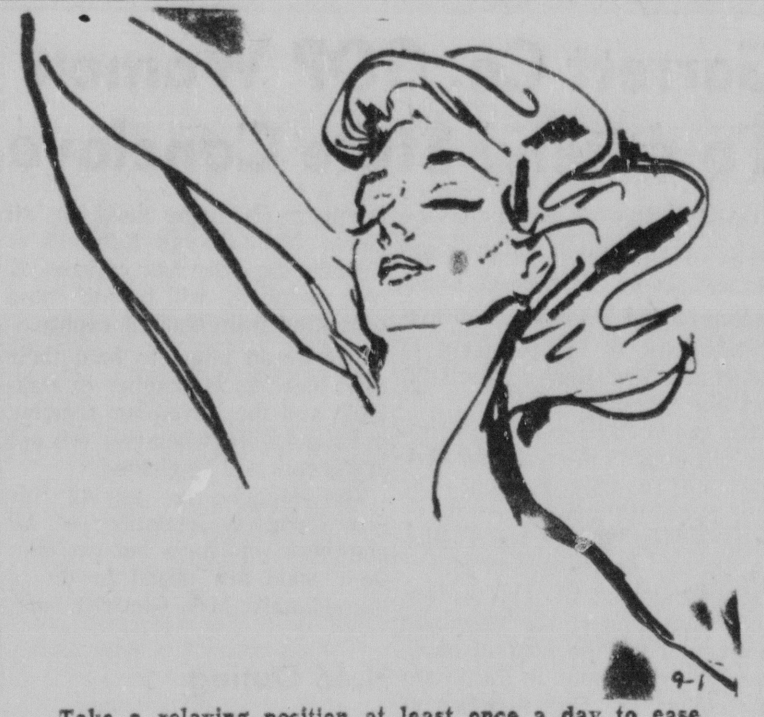
Fortunately for the matrimonial and birth statistics, men and women admire each other most during those important years between 20 and 30.

Everybody loves the housewife, the study statistics show. That is, everybody except women over 40, whose greatest admiration is reserved for career women. The statistics include a number of self-admiring business and professional women. It is comforting to note that the older a man grows, the more he admires the housewife—although there are a lot of houswives who will wonder about this.

Oh, yes, and about moderation—the subject that started the whole thing: the women split even-steven on the belief that they are the more moderate sex. Young men and business men believe the male to be the more moderate, but the older a guy gets, the more often he is inclined to cast his vote for women.

Ambassador To Return

TOKYO (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II will leave for Washington Monday to prepare for Japanese Foreign Minister Aiichiro Rujiyama's coming visit to the United States, the embassy announced Friday. On his return trip here late in September, he will confer with the U.S. Pacific Command headquarters in Hawaii.



Take a relaxing position at least once a day to ease "nerves" and tension.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Be Relaxed

Relaxation, the opposite of exercising, is an essential part of your charm and beauty program.

You know the old saying . . . "All work and no play!" It's impossible to lead the busy lives we do without some relaxation. If a woman is tired and tied up in knots, she gets cross, loses her charm and most certainly a great portion of her looks.

When you feel tired, pent up and jittery—drop what you're doing and take it easy. When you can, lie down for a nap . . . even if only a short one. You'll be amazed at how satisfactory it can be.

However, if you're going out for the evening and have no time for a nap, here's a good trick for untying knots in your nerves.

Take ten minutes for a feet-higher-than-the-head position. Cover your eyes with cotton pads soaked in chilled witch hazel, skin freshener or this eye pack—one teaspoon lime juice mixed with three teaspoons distilled water. This will relieve puffiness as well as rest the eyes.

For your inverted position, you can prop an ironing board against a sofa or chair, placing your head on floor and your feet on board. Or, lie on your bed with two pillows under your hips and your feet resting on the headboard. Place hands and arms turned down. R-E-L-A-X. Take several deep, deep breaths and think of something very peaceful. This position changes your circulation and gets rid of nerve tautness. Try this once a day.

New Creek Flood Dams Will Be Inspected Sunday

Area Farmers, Committeemen Invited

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Farmers along the South Fork watershed and committee members on the South Fork flood prevention project will inspect the New Creek watershed project Sunday, September 7, according to W. L. Clark, chairman of the committee. Assisting Clark will be William McCoy Jr., of Franklin.

Several dams have been completed on the New Creek project and the party will observe the details of the structures which will be similar to those proposed on South Fork watershed.

All interested farmers on South Fork watershed and committee members are invited to accompany the inspection party.

Tough Military Technique Used To Mold Christians

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

Rugged military training modeled on that of the Marine Corps is being used today to mold young troublemakers into Christians.

And despite the raised eyebrows of some church officials, it's getting results.

"We're a tough outfit," says Ben Moring, the leader of the program, "and that's what it takes to challenge these boys."

Almost single-handed, Moring has developed the project, against initial sharp opposition, until the churches have decided he has a point.

He organized his rigorously disciplined Centurion Cadet Corps three years ago to rehabilitate street-gang youths and teen-age malefactors.

It's being sponsored this year, for the first time and on an experimental basis, by the Protestant Council of New York. The Rev. Dr. Dan Potter, the council's executive secretary, says of Moring: "Somehow, he gains a rapport with those kids that no one else has been able to do."

The keynote, as Moring puts it, is "physical toughness and moral toughness."

"Being a Christian is the toughest thing in the world," he tells his recruits. "What's tougher than loving your enemy? If you're only a punk, you can't do it."

The training schedule, right out of the Marine Corps manual, includes the full gamut of closer-order drill, calisthenics, tactics, obstacle courses and hand-to-hand combat (with dummy weapons) —plus worship and Bible study.

If, for instance, some wiseacre goofs off in studying a portion of Luke, he may quickly be on K.P. or doing pushups.

"Our military technique is a means to an end, not an end in itself," Moring says. "We're not training an army to fight a battle, but we are training an army to fight a spiritual battle.

"In order to learn spiritual discipline, a boy has got to learn physical discipline first. It's a basic step for boys with problems of adjustment."

To the boys, many of them from broken homes or otherwise rejected by society, the uniformed military organization seems to fill needs both for proving themselves and belonging—satisfactions otherwise sought in street gangs.

A Negro, the 26-year-old Moring grew up on a share-cropper farm near Waterboro, S.C., and as a shoeshine boy and gang leader on the back streets of Philadelphia.

A champion track star at Michigan University, and a graduate in philosophy of Pacific College, Seattle, Moring was a student at Biblical Seminary, New York, when he conceived and launched his program.

He scrounged financing and campsites for the first two summers — near Preston, Conn., and Herdtown, N.J.—and this summer, the Protestant Council is backing the sessions at Sunset Lake, near Bushkill, Pa.

Training sessions go on in the winter — in a Manhattan church gym.

Industry, Initiative, And Foreign Aid

Topsy-turvy values in international affairs have made generosity a shameful business and gratitude a feeling no receiving nation need express. To abuse the giver is more fashionable than to thank him.

Poverty, incapacity and idleness are the best qualifications for a hand-out.

Giving all too often awakens an appetite for more and if this is not satisfied anger and abuse are generally the results. Friendship cannot be bought.

In the last 10 years, aid cost the United States $60 billion. Some of this money was spent unwisely. It did not deserve gratitude. A project of this sort is a 15-mile, six-lane highway in Portugal linking Lisbon with the fashionable gambling resort of Estoril.

Beside this sort of spending the U.N. Technical Assistance program expenditure of $31.5 million last year seems trifling. But it provided help in the fields of health, education, food, agriculture, meteorology and other forms of technical aid. It had the virtue of requiring the recipient to do something to help himself. And that is the best form of assistance.

Although 84 nations pledged financial assistance, the United States footed half the bill. Britain paid $2.2 million and Canada $2 million. They were the three biggest givers. It is significant that Russia's contribution was only half that of Canada's.

If Mr. Hammarskjold is offering aid in the Middle East it is to be hoped it will be modest in scale and leave plenty of scope for the recipients to show their industry and initiative.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Our Bright Children

Most parents believe that their children are more or less bright. In fact, many parents object to special schools for bright boys and girls because such schools show up their own little ones who are just average or if the truth must be told, even below that. Parents sometimes grow emotional about what they call undemocratic schools where they mark a dope F and give an A Plus to the capacious mind.

Professor A. Harry Passow of Teachers College, Columbia University, accuses me of having done him dirt on this subject when I recently quoted him from an Associated Press dispatch. He says that I needed a foil and used him. Why him? After reading the Associated Press dispatch, I made the point that the word democracy can have nothing to do with education which is an unequal task, some children being able to take more of it than others.

It turns out that Dr. Passow is in charge of a research project intended to develop ways of identifying and educating children of exceptional talent. He has sent me a mass of literature which shows that his views, except for professional jargon, are about the same as mine, although he approaches the problem professionally as a teacher, while I observe it journalistically as one witnesses any phenomenon of the day.

The bright child requires little identification; his brightness asserts itself, as Abraham Lincoln's brightness or Thomas Edison's genius asserted itself. What the excited educators are seeking is not as much genius as it is a greater proficiency to meet the needs of this country for a larger number of trained and disciplined minds to do the work of the nation.

Professor Passow asks in his numerous studies of the problem: "Who is to be considered gifted?" Does that question really have to be answered? If a marking system is honest and universal, the gifted will assert themselves, although it has been known to be so that a student got poor marks and became famous in the field of his early failure. Perhaps no better example of that can be Winston Churchill.

In a competitive world, quality will emerge to the top, no matter what is done to keep a man down. The struggle may be hard and even ugly but it is worth the effort when success comes.

Professor Passow's reference to "democracy" as provided by the Associated Press is more correctly stated in a passage in an article entitled: "Are We Short-Changing the Gifted?" which appeared in the "School Executive:"

"Another set of obstacles to adequate provision for the gifted results from a misinterpretation of the democratic commitment of public education. The school is the agency which fills individual specialized needs of each child while meeting the social needs of democracy. This integrating function, however, is twisted by some schools into a reason for avoiding necessary special provisions for the gifted child . . ."

Let us stop there because I think that the phrase "while meeting the social needs of democracy" is what makes all the trouble. If we simplify the purpose of the school, we shall produce bright boys and girls and discard the dullards. A school is a place to which children are sent to learn what their parents and teachers believe that they should be taught. As long as we insist on adding to that simple function of the school, all the complexities of social consciousness, we shall always be in our present dilemma which is whether it is not socially more valuable to teach a great many people something than to expend time and money on teaching a few brilliant minds who will invent another kind of atom bomb and read Sanscrit poetry. Professor Passow says:

"Fortunately, Americans do not consider as undemocratic the extraordinary provisions made for exceptional children who are mentally, physically, socially or emotionally handicapped. Schools have long recognized and met the need for special programs for these students. How odd, then, that many administrators fail to see that the gifted may become handicapped unless special provisions are made for them as well."

The fact, however, is that many administrators do take that view and they do it because it is politically unsound, particularly in smaller communities, to do otherwise. Educators complicate their problems with such phrases as "well-adjusted," "well-balanced," etc. Was Mozart "well-adjusted?" Was Einstein? Who knows and who cares?

Ike And Justice Department Were At Odds Over Little Rock Stand

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The adroit and sometimes harassed Jim Hagerty was confronted last week with the halting statement of his chief for "slower" school integration, plus the vigorous statement of his chief's Justice Department for immediate integration at Little Rock. Jim made the best of a difficult situation, insisted that the President and his Justice Department see eye-to-eye regarding Little Rock.

But the inside fact is that Ike was definitely at odds with his Justice Department. Furthermore he was quite irked at his Attorney General, William Rogers, for moving so fast regarding the entire Supreme Court review of the case. He has also been at odds with the Nixon wing of the Republican Party.

When Rogers was in Los Angeles attending the American Bar Association, he encouraged Chief Justice Warren to call a special session of the Court. He thought it would be an excellent idea to call the entire Court back to Washington to review the Little Rock case.

Rogers didn't say so, but he and Vice President Nixon have long felt that the administration had nothing to lose politically and everything to gain by taking a firm stand on integration. A strong speech before the Supreme Court in favor of integration might win votes for the Republicans in northern big cities.

So Rogers prepared to fly back to Washington to take personal charge of the Supreme Court case.

He found, however, that the President was not at all pleased. Ike is still stinging from the criticism that followed his dispatch of troops to Little Rock last year and he would much prefer to let the whole segregation-integration debate simmer.

When this word got to Attorney General Rogers in Los Angeles, he switched his plans, did not take personal charge of the Supreme Court case.

Democrats Throw It Away

Democratic leaders, meeting in the smoke-filled rooms of Buffalo last week, threw their odds out the window and made the race to control the pivot state of New York a fifty-fifty proposition. Millionaire Rockefeller, Republican, now has a chance to win over millionaire Harriman, Democrat. Before he didn't.

The odds were evened chiefly by Tammany leader Carmine De Sapio, who insisted that District Democratic candidate for the Attorney Frank Hogan be the Senate, first because the church insisted on a Catholic, second because De Sapio wanted to get his hands on the 300 jobs in the office of District Attorney.

Hitherto De Sapio couldn't get the time of day at this key law enforcement group for New York. Frank Hogan and Tom Dewey who appointed him, controlled it. Hogan's exit to run for the Senate would give De Sapio a chance to take over.

De Sapio was also able to argue that the church would not support the Democratic ticket unless a leading Catholic was on it. It was reported that the church would look with favor on Jim Farley, Hogan or Thomas Murray, the ex-Atomic Energy Commissioner.

Governor Harriman personally wanted Tom Finletter, the former Secretary of the Air Force, an Episcopalian, but in the end he let DeSapio and Tammany leaders have their way.

Rockefeller-Dubinsky Alliance

None of this went down well with New York's strong Liberal Party, which can swing about 250,000 votes on election day, and which had earlier nominated Finletter as its Senate candidate. What most people don't know is that Dave Dubinsky, guiding genius of the Liberal Party, has long been friendly to Nelson Rockefeller. Nelson's brother, David, once served in the cabinet of Mayor plowed the ground for the Liberals. Anna Rosenberg, who is paid an annual retainer by the Rockefeller family to advise on labor relations, has also been a bridge between the Republican candidate for governor and the Liberal Party.

So with Harriman winning the governorship in 1954 by only 11,000 votes, the 250,000 votes cast by the Liberals could be decisive.

Note—The Liberals and many Protestant Democrats would have welcomed Tom Murray, a Catholic as the Senate candidate. They don't want any man barred because of religion. But they resent being told that any man must be on the ticket merely because of his religion.

Nixon Takes A Hand

Newspapers played up the fact that Congressman Ken Keating had accepted the GOP Senate nomination because Vice President Nixon telephoned him. What they didn't report was the secret reason why Nixon made the call and what he promised Keating.

Nixon promised that if Keating lost the Senate race he would be rewarded with a place in the Eisenhower Little Cabinet, probably the post of Solicitor General. This is the No. 2 spot in the Justice Department. The Solicitor has the duty of presenting all government cases before the Supreme Court, a position now held by J. Lee Rankin. Since Nixon is the closest Washington friend of Attorney General Rogers, he was safe in offering Keating this post.

The reason Nixon made the phone call to Keating was fear that the Rockefeller-Dewey faction was ganging up against him to nose him out of the nomination for President. Dewey has worked with the Rockefellers for years, has been one of the main boosters of Nelson's candidacy. Obviously if Nelson should defeat Harriman he would be an important contender for President in 1960.

So in order to have a friend in the New York political camp, Nixon phoned his old friend Keating, with whom he served in the House of Representatives. At the time he phoned, U.S. Attorney Paul Williams was the leading candidate for the Senate. Immediately after Nixon phoned, Keating was nominated.

Note — The Republicans are running with a Baptist, Rockefeller, and a Presbyterian, Keating, in the two top spots.

Dauntless Underdog Hopes To Unseat Kennedy

By Rowland Evans Jr.

(Joseph Alsop is on vacation. While he is away his column will be written by Rowland Evans Jr.)

BOSTON

Up to a third-floor walk-up, the narrow wooden steps deeply grooved by age, a visitor climbs and knocks at the apartment door of Vincent J. Celeste, surely the most fearless politician of 1958.

Of all candidates running for any office anywhere this fall, Republican Vincent Celeste probably has the least chance of winning. Nevertheless, he radiates self-assurance.

"Kennedy's invincibility is nothing but myth," he says of Sen. John F. Kennedy. "I'm not naive enough to think he's going to be easy to beat, but I see no avalanche for him."

Experts at assessing this state politically emphatically disagree. The private polls also disagree. These polls show Sen. Kennedy so far ahead that one suspects they were taken at a Democratic picnic. Even the Republicans wouldn't be surprised if Kennedy, running for his second term in the Senate, piled up a plurality of more than 700,000 over Celeste, dwarfing the previous record of 561,668 taken by Republican Sen. Saltonstall in 1944. In addition, the Democrats have a unique chance to capture the State Senate for the first time in history.

But Celeste is unmoved by these statistics. The son of Sicilian immigrants, he announced his decision to run for the Republican Senatorial nomination last February. When the full measure of Kennedy's popularity was recognized by other potential candidates against Kennedy, Celeste had the field to himself. New he is spoiling for the fight.

"My biggest asset is that I know what it is to be defeated," he says, with the air of a man who, having just had one tooth pulled, is on his way back to the dentist for another extraction. Kennedy beat him better than 3-to-1 in his election to the House in 1950. Far from disheartening Celeste, the experience seems to have emboldened him.

Celeste is 34 years old, compactly built with dark hair neatly combed. Sitting in his small, tidy kitchen in the center of the tough East Boston waterfront district, he sketched the outline of his giant-killing campaign against the most popular Democrat in the country today. Its central feature is a charge that Kennedy is backed by a "financial steamroller," that up to now has somehow been able to buy off all the Republican voters.

"You'll notice," Celeste says to make his point, "that we haven't put out any Celeste stickers in this campaign. Kennedy's got stickers all over, but not me. If I put out stickers, that shows where my strength is. Then Kennedy's financial steamroller could move in with the wagon-load of money and buy out my supporters."

Unhappily for Celeste, who is practically without funds himself, a number of prominent Republicans are making it easier for Kennedy to fill his campaign coffers. Some of these Republicans have paid up to $1,000 a plate for the privilege of eating a fund-raising breakfast with Kennedy.

Celeste, nevertheless, is preparing to sound the money-bags alarm from one end of the state to the other. For his part, Kennedy is not going to put up a single billboard advertising his candidacy. Nor does he plan more than three or four television speeches, including a half-hour professional job or "a day in the life of Sen. Kennedy." Unless the indicators are all wrong, he does not need to.

Other issues that Celeste will try to exploit are Kennedy's support of the St. Lawrence Seaway, his civil rights record, his recent criticism of the Administration's foreign and military policies and his labor record.

Although none of this is frightening Kennedy, there is a good deal more at stake for him than just his own victory. Kennedy also wants to nail down the reelection of Foster Furcolo as Governor. As a matter of prestige that could harm his prospect for the Presidential nomination in 1960, Kennedy's friends are convinced he cannot afford to let the other half of his ticket go down.

Celeste, of course, is unshaken in his optimism that he will beat Kennedy, the flashiest of all the Democratic glamour boys. He foresees a heavy vote among the Italian, Irish, Jewish and Negro minorities. He hints at secret issues to be brought up against Kennedy at the proper time. "I'm counting on the anti-Kennedy feeling more than the pro-Celeste feeling," he says.

Vice President Nixon and any other Republican interested in running for President in 1960 will undoubtedly follow the Celeste campaign to see if there really is an "anti-Kennedy feeling" and how it can be exploited.

What Causes Cirrhosis Of The Liver?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

How much whisky must a person drink to develop cirrhosis of the liver? This is a moot question but a group of French physicians may have come up with the answer. Who should know better than the French?

Dr. J. Caroli and colleagues of Paris told the World Congress of Gastroenterology that the chances of getting cirrhosis are nil among those who keep their consumption of alcohol below 72 grams a day. This is equal to the amount of alcohol contained in one quart of wine, six ounces of bourbon, or seven ounces of Scotch.

On the other hand, virtually all who drank twice this amount every day, regardless of diet, became cirrhotic. In between these two limits, approximately 40 per cent developed liver trouble. These were the men and women who imbibed six to 12 ounces of bourbon, seven to 14 of Scotch, or one to two quarts of wine daily. In this group, diet played a role; cirrhosis occurred less frequently in those who consumed normal amounts of protein foods.

This report refutes to some extent the idea that an alcoholic drinks his food and gets cirrhosis because he does not eat.

There are other causes of cirrhosis, such as ordinary malnutrition and infection of the liver due to viral hepatitis. But alcoholism is the major factor in 75 per cent of all cases. Victims of this disease prefer to blame a faulty diet but it is difficult to overlook the alcohol all are using. Most of our researchers place all alcoholics in the same category, without regard for the quantity consumed.

But the French physicians have something. Only a small percentage of alcoholics develop cirrhosis. Perhaps the majority of drinkers are in the in-between group mentioned who are eating well. There also is a possibility that alcohol increases the liver's need for protein and unless the alcoholic eats more than the normal amount, he is likely to suffer from the deficit. In this respect, he thinks he is eating enough because he has no way of knowing that the liver is working hard to overcome the effects of alcohol and needs more protein foods.

BOIL VALUE

M. R. writes: Is it true that boils are worth $25 to get rid of the poison in your system?

REPLY

A boil isn't worth even 25c for this purpose. These abscesses represent infections of the hair follicles. They are not a sign that "poison is escaping from the system" or that the person has bad blood."

BRUSHING GAGS

Mrs. T. writes: When my little girl brushes her teeth after breakfast, she throws up. What can we do about this?

REPLY

It may be necessary to have her brush her teeth before breakfast until she becomes accustomed to the chore. Meanwhile, try a smaller brush, less dentifrice, or a paste that does not become foamy. The use of salt and soda on the brush may cause less commotion.

SOME DO

D. R. writes: Does a brain tumor always show up on X-rays or are other tests needed?

REPLY

,Other tests may be required, some in conjunction with X-rays. These include electroencephalography, angiography, ventriculography, pneumoencephalography, lumbar puncture, and the use of radioisotopes. These tests are not as bad as they sound.

BLOCKED STOMACH

Mrs. J. M. writes: What causes pyloric stenosis in a new baby?

REPLY

The cause of thickening of the pylorus in newborns is not known but it is thought to be a developmental defect. The condition induces vomiting and constipation. Best results follow early surgical correction.

SUNNING AND PHLEBITIS

C. J. writes: Is it safe to expose a leg to the sun that had a serious thrombosis a year ago?

REPLY

Yes, provided exposure is gradual so that the skin is not burned.

AT ANY AGE

W. R. writes: Can whooping cough be contracted by a 13 year old?

REPLY

Yes. The causative organisms are not a bit superstitious.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Oliver St. John Gogarty: "We are part of what has gone before. Parcels of the past guide us. What we call the present is only a suburb of the past."

Archaeologist (upon discovering petrified bodies in what obviously must once have been a prison in the ruins of Pompeii): "Hardened criminals, I'll vow."

There is a reminder pad on my desk. I can catch up with anything but this. No matter how fast I work, new items lengthen the list. They are written in pencil in a scrawl decipherable only to me. The ones with the line drawn through have been executed. Those with check marks mean that I have tried to phone, but the line was busy.

Once, last winter, I was within four items of catching up with the reminder pad. Now, having spent a few days fishing for blues in the Atlantic (and coming home with fluke), I am not within two pages of catching up. With any luck, it may get worse.

The items read like this (and if they make any sense to you, please get in touch with me at once): Call Paar re Marty Brill, talented young guitarist and comic. . . . Lunch with Heyn regarding religious stories. . . . Phone Arthur Axelsen re bowling if his wife will let him out at night. . . .

Congratulate Dick Gehman on fine articles about Considine. . . . Thank Ron Salk for the Bernz-O-Matic. . . . Ask Zobel's boat yard for bill. . . . Drop a note to Mrs. Jim Bishop in Los Angeles and remind her that she has just married the wrong one. . . . Call Art Carney in Crestwood and ask him to lunch. . . . Ditto Lila Lee.

Visit Tom Dodd, who is running for the Senate in Connecticut. . . . Start cross-indexing The Time of the Traitors. . . . Polish metal on the boat (it should live so long!). . . . Ask vet why Rocky not eating. . . . Call Bro. John at Christ Hospital, Jersey City. Ask him and Anna to shore for weekend. . . . Order more color film from M. Ingher at Dumont Exchange. . . .

Who left damp diapers in bathroom basin? . . . Help dynamo John Griffin get new accounts. . . . Find out when St. Joseph's Home for Boys is moving to Rockleigh. . . . Thank Geo. Feyer for invite to Hotel Carlyle. . . . Where is Len Golos these days?

Ask Otto Gillig about leak in the sea wall dike. . . . Dr. Dick Hoffmann long overdue for dinner. . . . Thank Mary McCloud at Waldorf for so many favors. . . . When is John Hayes of Fanny Farmer stores coming to N. Y.? . . . Al Jordan writes that his missing dghtr is home. . . . Helen Kane (boopa-doo) isn't feeling well. . . . Find out name of woman who almost fainted when Sullivan's mynah bird looked her in the eye and said: "Oh, are you a talking bird?" . . .

Ask Jackie Loughery's parents to lunch. . . . Wherefore art thou, Ella Logan? . . . Thank Father Howard for Fatima record. . . . Set up night out with the Alphonse Moyses. . . . Ask Ed Kuhn when copies of "Go With God" will be ready. . . . Phone Aileen Pringle before she loses patience. . . . Phone Kruman at Seaboard Service for oil. . . .

Webb how I can splice film so that it will hold together. . . . Ask Tommy and Lou Tompson to visit. . . . See Teller regarding persecution of Jews in Soviet Union. . . .

Ask Art Katim who was crowned Miss Sea Bright. Do story. . . . Talk to Gov. Meyner about beach erosion. . . . Try to make at least one dance at Atlantic Highlands Yacht Club. . . . Tell cook to cut down on mashed potatoes. . . . Give up trying to reply to all the kind notes and wires re the Good Housekeeping article. Can't do it. . . . Ask for report on Schoenstein book. . . . Reader asks where I got story of Foot-and-a-half. Tell him from my father, who was Penn R. R. brakeman many years ago. . . . Help mountainous brother-in-law, Emil Steeneken, to find job. . . .

Tomorrow, there will be fresh items on my reminder pad. Nice new ones. Oh well. Without them, and the columns and books, life would be dull indeed. It would be better, I guess, if I never catch up with all those items.

Slow and easy. That's my credo. . .

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt

A research team at Philadelphia's Lankenau hospital says alcohol does not harm the heart as much as fear. As FDR said just before repeal, all we have to fear is fear itself.

Your adrenalin will stimulate your heart four times as much as three cocktails. On the other hand, your adrenalin isn't 80 cents a stimulant.

What makes drinkers get red faces, the researchers say, is alcohol opening up the peripheral arteries which let blood flow from arteries to veins. If this research team wants to do a humanitarian service it should study these faces the next morning.

Industry, Initiative, And Foreign Aid

Topsy-turvy values in international affairs have made generosity a shameful business and gratitude a feeling no receiving nation need express. To abuse the giver is more fashionable than to thank him.

Poverty, incapacity and idleness are the best qualifications for a hand-out.

Giving all too often awakens an appetite for more and if this is not satisfied anger and abuse are generally the results. Friendship cannot be bought.

In the last 10 years, aid cost the United States $60 billion. Some of this money was spent unwisely. It did not deserve gratitude. A project of this sort is a 15-mile, six-lane highway in Portugal linking Lisbon with the fashionable gambling resort of Estoril.

Beside this sort of spending the U.N. Technical Assistance program expenditure of $31.5 million last year seems trifling. But it provided help in the fields of health, education, food, agriculture, meteorology and other forms of technical aid. It had the virtue of requiring the recipient to do something to help himself. And that is the best form of assistance.

Although 84 nations pledged financial assistance, the United States footed half the bill. Britain paid $2.2 million and Canada $2 million. They were the three biggest givers. It is significant that Russia's contribution was only half that of Canada's.

If Mr. Hammarskjold is offering aid in the Middle East it is to be hoped it will be modest in scale and leave plenty of scope for the recipients to show their industry and initiative.

These Days

Our Bright Children

Most parents believe that their children are more or less bright. In fact, many parents object to special schools for bright boys and girls because such schools show up their own little ones who are just average or if the truth must be told, even below that. Parents sometimes grow emotional about what they call undemocratic schools where they mark a dope F and give an A Plus to the capacious mind.

Professor A. Harry Passow of Teachers College, Columbia University, accuses me of having done him dirt on this subject when I recently quoted him from an Associated Press dispatch. He says that I needed a foil and used him. Why him? After reading the Associated Press dispatch, I made the point that the word democracy can have nothing to do with education which is an unequal task, some children being able to take more of it than others.

It turns out that Dr. Passow is in charge of a research project intended to develop ways of identifying and educating children of exceptional talent. He has sent me a mass of literature which shows that his views, except for professional jargon, are about the same as mine, although he approaches the problem professionally as a teacher, while I observe it journalistically as one witnesses any phenomenon of the day.

The bright child requires little identification; his brightness asserts itself, as Abraham Lincoln's brightness or Thomas Edison's genius asserted itself. What the excited educators are seeking is not as much genius as it is a greater proficiency to meet the needs of this country for a larger number of trained and disciplined minds to do the work of the nation.

Professor Passow asks in his numerous studies of the problem: "Who is to be considered gifted?" Does that question really have to be answered? If a marking system is honest and universal, the gifted will assert themselves, although it has been known to be so that a student got poor marks and became famous in the field of his early failure. Perhaps no better example of that can be Winston Churchill.

In a competitive world, quality will emerge to the top, no matter what is done to keep a man down. The struggle may be hard and even ugly but it is worth the effort when success comes.

Professor Passow's reference to "democracy" as provided by the Associated Press is more correctly stated in a passage in an article entitled: "Are We Short-Changing the Gifted?" which appeared in the "School Executive:"

"Another set of obstacles to adequate provision for the gifted results from a misinterpretation of the democratic commitment of public education. The school is the agency which fills individual specialized needs of each child while meeting the social needs of democracy. This integrating function, however, is twisted by some schools into a reason for avoiding necessary special provisions for the gifted child . . ."

Let us stop there because I think that the phrase "while meeting the social needs of democracy" is what makes all the trouble. If we simplify the purpose of the school, we shall produce bright boys and girls and discard the dullards. A school is a place to which children are sent to learn what their parents and teachers believe that they should be taught. As long as we insist on adding to that simple function of the school, all the complexities of social consciousness, we shall always be in our present dilemma which is whether it is not socially more valuable to teach a great many people something than to expend time and money on teaching a few brilliant minds who will invent another kind of atom bomb and read Sanscrit poetry. Professor Passow says:

"Fortunately, Americans do not consider as undemocratic the extraordinary provisions made for exceptional children who are mentally, physically, socially or emotionally handicapped. Schools have long recognized and met the need for special programs for these students. How odd, then, that many administrators fail to see that the gifted may become handicapped unless special provisions are made for them as well."

The fact, however, is that many administrators do take that view and they do it because it is politically unsound, particularly in smaller communities, to do otherwise. Educators complicate their problems with such phrases as "well-adjusted," "well-balanced," etc. Was Mozart "well-adjusted?" Was Einstein? Who knows and who cares?

Ike And Justice Department Were At Odds Over Little Rock Stand

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The adroit and sometimes harassed Jim Hagerty was confronted last week with the halting statement of his chief for "slower" school integration, plus the vigorous statement of his chief's Justice Department for immediate integration at Little Rock. Jim made the best of a difficult situation, insisted that the President and his Justice Department see eye-to-eye regarding Little Rock.

But the inside fact is that Ike was definitely at odds with his Justice Department. Furthermore he was quite irked at his Attorney General, William Rogers, for moving so fast regarding the entire Supreme Court review of the case. He has also been at odds with the Nixon wing of the Republican Party.

When Rogers was in Los Angeles attending the American Bar Association, he encouraged Chief Justice Warren to call a special session of the Court. He thought it would be an excellent idea to call the entire Court back to Washington to review the Little Rock case.

Rogers didn't say so, but he and Vice President Nixon have long felt that the administration had nothing to lose politically and everything to gain by taking a firm stand on integration. A strong speech before the Supreme Court in favor of integration might win votes for the Republicans in northern big cities.

So Rogers prepared to fly back to Washington to take personal charge of the Supreme Court case.

He found, however, that the President was not at all pleased. Ike is still stinging from the criticism that followed his dispatch of troops to Little Rock last year and he would much prefer to let the whole segregation-integration debate simmer.

When this word got to Attorney General Rogers in Los Angeles, he switched his plans, did not take personal charge of the Supreme Court case.

Democrats Throw It Away

Democratic leaders, meeting in the smoke-filled rooms of Buffalo last week, threw their odds out the window and made the race to control the pivot state of New York a fifty-fifty proposition. Millionaire Rockefeller, Republican, now has a chance to win over millionaire Harriman, Democrat. Before he didn't.

The odds were evened chiefly by Tammany leader Carmine De Sapio, who insisted that District Democratic candidate for the Attorney Frank Hogan be the Senate, first because the church insisted on a Catholic, second because De Sapio wanted to get his hands on the 300 jobs in the office of District Attorney.

Hitherto De Sapio couldn't get the time of day at this key law enforcement group for New York. Frank Hogan and Tom Dewey who appointed him, controlled it. Hogan's exit to run for the Senate would give De Sapio a chance to take over.

De Sapio was also able to argue that the church would not support the Democratic ticket unless a leading Catholic was on it. It was reported that the church would look with favor on Jim Farley, Hogan or Thomas Murray, the ex-Atomic Energy Commissioner.

Governor Harriman personally wanted Tom Finletter, the former Secretary of the Air Force, an Episcopalian, but in the end he let DeSapio and Tammany leaders have their way.

Rockefeller-Dubinsky Alliance

None of this went down well with New York's strong Liberal Party, which can swing about 250,000 votes on election day, and which had earlier nominated Finletter as its Senate candidate. What most people don't know is that Dave Dubinsky, guiding genius of the Liberal Party, has long been friendly to Nelson Rockefeller. Nelson's brother, David, once served in the cabinet of Mayor plowed the ground for the Liberals. Anna Rosenberg, who is paid an annual retainer by the Rockefeller family to advise on labor relations, has also been a bridge between the Republican candidate for governor and the Liberal Party.

So with Harriman winning the governorship in 1954 by only 11,000 votes, the 250,000 votes cast by the Liberals could be decisive.

Note—The Liberals and many Protestant Democrats would have welcomed Tom Murray, a Catholic as the Senate candidate. They don't want any man barred because of religion. But they resent being told that any man must be on the ticket merely because of his religion.

Nixon Takes A Hand

Newspapers played up the fact that Congressman Ken Keating had accepted the GOP Senate nomination because Vice President Nixon telephoned him. What they didn't report was the secret reason why Nixon made the call and what he promised Keating.

Nixon promised that if Keating lost the Senate race he would be rewarded with a place in the Eisenhower Little Cabinet, probably the post of Solicitor General. This is the No. 2 spot in the Justice Department. The Solicitor has the duty of presenting all government cases before the Supreme Court, a position now held by J. Lee Rankin. Since Nixon is the closest Washington friend of Attorney General Rogers, he was safe in offering Keating this post.

The reason Nixon made the phone call to Keating was fear that the Rockefeller-Dewey faction was ganging up against him to nose him out of the nomination for President. Dewey has worked with the Rockefellers for years, has been one of the main boosters of Nelson's candidacy. Obviously if Nelson should defeat Harriman he would be an important contender for President in 1960.

So in order to have a friend in the New York political camp, Nixon phoned his old friend Keating, with whom he served in the House of Representatives. At the time he phoned, U.S. Attorney Paul Williams was the leading candidate for the Senate. Immediately after Nixon phoned, Keating was nominated.

Note — The Republicans are running with a Baptist, Rockefeller, and a Presbyterian, Keating, in the two top spots.

Dauntless Underdog Hopes To Unseat Kennedy

(Joseph Alsop is on vacation. While he is away his column will be written by Rowland Evans Jr.)

By Rowland Evans Jr.

BOSTON

Up to a third-floor walk-up, the narrow wooden steps deeply grooved by age, a visitor climbs and knocks at the apartment door of Vincent J. Celeste, surely the most fearless politician of 1958.

Of all candidates running for any office anywhere this fall, Republican Vincent Celeste probably has the least chance of winning. Nevertheless, he radiates self-assurance.

"Kennedy's invincibility is nothing but myth," he says of Sen. John F. Kennedy. "I'm not naive enough to think he's going to be easy to beat, but I see no avalanche for him."

Experts at assessing this state politically emphatically disagree. The private polls also disagree. These polls show Sen. Kennedy so far ahead that one suspects they were taken at a Democratic picnic. Even the Republicans wouldn't be surprised if Kennedy, running for his second term in the Senate, piled up a plurality of more than 700,000 over Celeste, dwarfing the previous record of 561,668 taken by Republican Sen. Saltonstall in 1944. In addition, the Democrats have a unique chance to capture the State Senate for the first time in history.

But Celeste is unmoved by these statistics. The son of Sicilian immigrants, he announced his decision to run for the Republican Senatorial nomination last February. When the full measure of Kennedy's popularity was recognized by other potential candidates against Kennedy, Celeste had the field to himself. New he is spoiling for the fight.

"My biggest asset is that I know what it is to be defeated," he says, with the air of a man who, having just had one tooth pulled, is on his way back to the dentist for another extraction. Kennedy beat him better than 3-to-1 in his election to the House in 1950. Far from disheartening Celeste, the experience seems to have emboldened him.

Celeste is 34 years old, compactly built with dark hair neatly combed. Sitting in his small, tidy kitchen in the center of the tough East Boston waterfront district, he sketched the outline of his giant-killing campaign against the most popular Democrat in the country today. Its central feature is a charge that Kennedy is backed by a "financial steamroller," that up to now has somehow been able to buy off all the Republican voters.

"You'll notice," Celeste says to make his point, "that we haven't put out any Celeste stickers in this campaign. Kennedy's got stickers all over, but not me. If I put out stickers, that shows where my strength is. Then Kennedy's financial steamroller could move in with the wagon-load of money and buy out my supporters."

Unhappily for Celeste, who is practically without funds himself, a number of prominent Republicans are making it easier for Kennedy to fill his campaign coffers. Some of these Republicans have paid up to $1,000 a plate for the privilege of eating a fund-raising breakfast with Kennedy.

Celeste, nevertheless, is preparing to sound the money-bags alarm from one end of the state to the other. For his part, Kennedy is not going to put up a single billboard advertising his candidacy. Nor does he plan more than three or four television speeches, including a half-hour professional job or " a day in the life of Sen. Kennedy." Unless the indicators are all wrong, he does not need to.

Other issues that Celeste will try to exploit are Kennedy's support of the St. Lawrence Seaway, his civil rights record, his recent criticism of the Administration's foreign and military policies and his labor record.

Although none of this is frightening Kennedy, there is a good deal more at stake for him than just his own victory. Kennedy also wants to nail down the reelection of Foster Furcolo as Governor. As a matter of prestige that could harm his prospect for the Presidential nomination in 1960, Kennedy's friends are convinced he cannot afford to let the other half of his ticket go down.

Celeste, of course, is unshaken in his optimism that he will beat Kennedy, the flashiest of all the Democratic glamour boys. He foresees a heavy vote among the Italian, Irish, Jewish and Negro minorities. He hints at secret issues to be brought up against Kennedy at the proper time. "I'm counting on the anti-Kennedy feeling more than the pro-Celeste feeling," he says.

Vice President Nixon and any other Republican interested in running for President in 1960 will undoubtedly follow the Celeste campaign to see if there really is an "anti-Kennedy feeling" and how it can be exploited.

What Causes Cirrhosis Of The Liver?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

How much whisky must a person drink to develop cirrhosis of the liver? This is a moot question but a group of French physicians may have come up with the answer. Who should know better than the French?

Dr. J. Caroli and colleagues of Paris told the World Congress of Gastroenterology that the chances of getting cirrhosis are nil among those who keep their consumption of alcohol below 72 grams a day. This is equal to the amount of alcohol contained in one quart of wine, six ounces of bourbon, or seven ounces of Scotch.

On the other hand, virtually all who drank twice this amount every day, regardless of diet, became cirrhotic. In between these two limits, approximately 40 per cent developed liver trouble. These were the men and women who imbibed six to 12 ounces of bourbon, seven to 14 of Scotch, or one to two quarts of wine daily. In this group, diet played a role; cirrhosis occurred less frequently in those who consumed normal amounts of protein foods.

This report refutes to some extent the idea that an alcoholic drinks his food and gets cirrhosis because he does not eat.

There are other causes of cirrhosis, such as ordinary malnutrition and infection of the liver due to viral hepatitis. But alcoholism is the major factor in 75 per cent of all cases. Victims of this disease prefer to blame a faulty diet but it is difficult to overlook the alcohol all are using. Most of our researchers place all alcoholics in the same category, without regard for the quantity consumed.

But the French physicians have something. Only a small percentage of alcoholics develop cirrhosis. Perhaps the majority of drinkers are in the in-between group mentioned who are eating well. There also is a possibility that alcohol increases the liver's need for protein and unless the alcoholic eats more than the normal amount, he is likely to suffer from the deficit. In this respect, he thinks he is eating enough because he has no way of knowing that the liver is working hard to overcome the effects of alcohol and needs more protein foods.

BOIL VALUE

M. R. writes: Is it true that boils are worth $25 to get rid of the poison in your system?

REPLY

A boil isn't worth even 25c for this purpose. These abscesses represent infections of the hair follicles. They are not a sign that "poison is escaping from the system" or that the person has bad blood."

BRUSHING GAGS

Mrs. T. writes: When my little girl brushes her teeth after breakfast, she throws up. What can we do about this?

REPLY

It may be necessary to have her brush her teeth before breakfast until she becomes accustomed to the chore. Meanwhile, try a smaller brush, less dentifrice, or a paste that does not become foamy. The use of salt and soda on the brush may cause less commotion.

SOME DO

D. R. writes: Does a brain tumor always show up on X-rays or are other tests needed?

REPLY

,Other tests may be required, some in conjunction with X-rays. These include electroencephalography, angiography, ventriculography, pneumoencephalography, lumbar puncture, and the use of radioisotopes. These tests are not as bad as they sound.

BLOCKED STOMACH

Mrs. J. M. writes: What causes pyloric stenosis in a new baby?

REPLY

The cause of thickening of the pylorus in newborns is not known but it is thought to be a developmental defect. The condition induces vomiting and constipation. Best results follow early surgical correction.

SUNNING AND PHLEBITIS

C. J. writes: Is it safe to expose a leg to the sun that had a serious thrombosis a year ago?

REPLY

Yes, provided exposure is gradual so that the skin is not burned.

AT ANY AGE

W. R. writes: Can whooping cough be contracted by a 13 year old?

REPLY

Yes. The causative organisms are not a bit superstitious.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

You're Telling Me

A research team at Philadelphia's Lankenau hospital says alcohol does not harm the heart as much as fear. As FDR said just before repeal, all we have to fear is fear itself.

Your adrenalin will stimulate your heart four times as much as three cocktails. On the other hand, your adrenalin isn't 80 cents a stimulant.

What makes drinkers get red faces, the researchers say, is alcohol opening up the peripheral arteries which let blood flow from arteries to veins. If this research team wants to do a humanitarian service it should study these faces the next morning.

Milwaukee Trims Pirates, 2-0, Leads By 8½ Games

Carl Willey Holds Buccos To Five Hits

Rookie Fans Nine And Notches Fourth Shutout Of Season

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves increased their National League lead to a season high of eight and one half games Sunday as rookie Carl Willey blanked the Pittsburgh Pirates on five hits for a 2-0 victory. Willey struck out nine Pirates in pitching his fourth shutout since being recalled from Wichita in mid-June.

Ronnie Kline, Willey's pitching opponent, also went all the way, but runs in the first and seventh innings were enough to saddle him with his 13th defeat against 12 victories. He allowed nine hits.

Willey had to pitch his way out of four jams before gaining his ninth triumph against four defeats. Twice, in the sixth and eighth, the Pirates filled the bases with their big power man, Frank Thomas, at the plate. But in the sixth, Thomas popped out and Bill Mazeroski flied out, and in the eighth, Thomas bounced into a double play.

Chris Crawford Upsets MacKay

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—Chris Crawford, a flaxen-haired collegian from Piedmont, Calif., blasted fifth-seeded Barry MacKay to the sidelines Sunday in a second round shocker of the U. S. National Tennis Championships. The score was 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

It was a costly defeat for the big, stoop-shouldered Davis Cup sensation from Dayton, Ohio, whom Uncle Sam was looking to for recovery of the famed trophy from Australia.

Cub Homers Sink Cards

Chicago Hits Three In 8 To 5 Triumph

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Chicago Cub hitting, including three home runs, one of them a three-run job by Chuck Tanner, produced an 8-5 victory over the Cardinals here Sunday.

The Cubs needed three pitchers in the loosely played contest. The Red Birds used four. The victory went to Taylor Phillips who relieved starter Moe Drabowsky in the third. He in turn left in favor of Bill Henry in the seventh. It left Phillips with a 7-8 record.

Chicago took a two-run first inning lead. Tony Taylor's lead-off homer was followed by successive walks to Ernie Banks and Walt Moryn and a single by Lee Walls which scored Banks.

In the third, Tanner, batting for Walls who had been thumbed out of the game, hit his three-run homer. Walls was ejected by Umpire Frank Secory for claiming too heatedly he had been hit by a pitched ball. Banks was on with a single and Moryn was safe because of Don Blasingame's fumble when Tanner stepped up.

Turley Gets Credit For Win No. 20

Washington Stages 4-Run Rally In 9th But Yanks Win, 7-6

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bob Turley needed some late-inning help from three relief pitchers Sunday but the New York Yankees emerged 7-6 victors over the Washington Senators and Turley became the major leagues' first 20-game winner of the season. The celler-dwelling Senators rallied for four runs in the ninth inning but fell short.

The Senators went into the ninth trailing by 7-2. However Albie Pearson, Roy Sievers and Clint Courtney singled for a run before reliever Johnny Kucks could retire a batter. Then, with one out, Norm Zauchin smacked his 13th homer of the season into the left field seats and the three runs which scored on the blast put the Senators within a run of the league-leaders.

Murray Dickson was brought and his first act was to hit Ed Yost with a pitch. After Dickson got Rocky Bridges on a fly for the second out, he walked pinch-hitter Ken Aspromonte and the potential tying run was at second and the game-winner at first.

However, Herb Plews ended the game by tapping to first baseman Bill Skowron, with the 41-year-old Yankee pitcher covering the bag and barely beating Plews there.

White Sox Hurler Notches 12th Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Early Wynn allowed only two hits and fanned seven as he hurled the Chicago White Sox to a 3-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers Sunday.

It was the veteran's fourth shutout of the season and No. 36 of his career, second only to Warren Spahn's 43 among the active pitchers in the game. The victory was his 12th.

Only hits off Wynn were a clean line drive single to center by Johnny Groth in the third inning and another ground single to right by pinch batter Harvey Kuenn in the ninth.

Balk Aids Bosox To Beat Orioles

Piersall's Single Decides Game, 3-2

BOSTON (AP) — Boston center fielder Jim Piersall singled after a critical balk call on pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm in the seventh inning Sunday for a 3-2 Red Sox victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Frank Malzone opened the Boston seventh by beating out a high hopper to third and was forced by Jackie Jensen. First base Umpire Ed Runge called a balk on Wilhelm which drew loud but unheeded protests from Hoyt and Manager Paul Richards.

Jensen strolled down to second and after Dick Gernert fouled out, Piersall drilled the deciding single to right.

Tom Brewer, victim of two unearned runs in the fifth inning, allowed eight hits en route to his 10th triumph in 20 decisions this season. Wilhelm held the Sox to five safeties. His record is 2-8. The knuckleball ace was making his first start for the Orioles since his acquisition from Cleveland.

Cincy Defeats Phillies Twice

Redlegs Take Six In Row, 6-2 And 7-3

CINCINNATI (UPI)—John Temple, Ed Bailey and Jerry Lynch provided the power and Harvey Haddix and Don Newcombe the pitching as the Cincinnati Redlegs beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-2, and 7-3, to run their winning streak to six games Sunday.

The six-game winning streak is the longest of the year for the Redlegs.

Lynch unloaded a three-run homer in the seventh inning of the finale to break a 3-3 tie. Don Newcombe scattered 14 hits to even his record since coming to the Redlegs at 5-5. He is 5-11 for the season.

Two home runs by Carl Sawatski produced two Philly runs, and Richie Ashburn, Hemus and Wallie Post singled for another to give the Phils an early lead.

In the opener, the Redlegs broke open a 1-1 tie with four unearned runs off Ray Semproch in the sixth. A walk, Bailey's infield single and successive wild throws by Solley Hemus and Ed Bouchee allowed George Crowe to score from first base on the same play. Another walk and Willie Jones' error filled the bases whereupon Temple doubled home three runs.

Bailey's home runs, in the fourth and eighth innings, gave him 10 for the season.

Richardson, Olmedo Reach Third Round

Anderson, Fraser Also Score Wins

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Two of Uncle Sam's Davis Cup hopefuls, Ham Richardson and Alex Olmedo, breezed into the third round of the U.S. Tennis Championships under wraps Sunday along with a pair of Australia's heaviest guns, Mal Anderson and Neale Fraser.

Richardson, young senatorial aide from Arlington, Va., who is making a competitive comeback after completing a Rhodes scholarship at Oxford, turned back William Bond, a promising 16-year-old from LaJolla, Calif., 6-4, 7-5, 6-3.

Olmedo, the Peruvian from the University of Southern California, erased Gregory Grant of San Marino, Calif., 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

Anderson, the stringy Queenslander who is favored to repeat as men's champion, won over a 35-year-old Peruvian businessman, Eduardo Buse, 6-1, 6-2, 7-5.

Fraser had a featured role in the stadium where his left-handed shots and lightning reflexes proved too much for Britain's No. 1 Davis Cup ace, Michael Davies, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3.

Mrs. Dorothy Knode of Forest Hills, seeded No. 2 behind Althea Gibson, and Britain's Ann Haydon, No. 3, were the only ranked women players in action. Mrs. Knode won over Joan Sullivan of Belmont, Mass., 6-0, 6-4, Miss Haydon crushed Helen [illegible]ill of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-2, 6-3.

Giants Wallop Dodgers, 14-2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Giants thumped Los Angeles 14-2 Sunday for San Francisco's third victory in a row over the fading Dodgers. Bob Schmidt's grand slam homer and Willie Mays' two-run blast were the key blows in a 15-hit Giant attack.

The slaughter before a crowd of 20,744 in sunny Seals Stadium was the 13th Giant victory in 17 Dodger games and moved the San Franciscans into a second place National League tie with Pittsburgh.

Four Dodger pitchers were unsuccessful in checking the barrage as Giants' slow baller Stu Miller limited the losers to eight hits. It was his fourth victory.

Schmidt, along with his first inning grand slammer, drove in two more runs with a sacrifice fly and a single.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Two home runs by Rocky Colavito and one by Minnie Minoso gave the Cleveland Indians a 3-2 victory over the Kansas City Athletics in 11 innings Sunday. The victory went to Martin, making the second in two days he has picked up from the A's for a 2-0 record.

Ralph Terry, now 8-10, was the loser, going all the way and holding the Indians to only five hits.

Terry had two out in the ninth when Colavito hit his second homer to tie up the game. Rocky also homered with two out in the seventh.

Milwaukee Trims Pirates, 2-0, Leads By 8½ Games

Carl Willey Holds Buccos To Five Hits

Rookie Fans Nine And Notches Fourth Shutout Of Season

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves increased their National League lead to a season high of eight and one half games Sunday as rookie Carl Willey blanked the Pittsburgh Pirates on five hits for a 2-0 victory. Willey struck out nine Pirates in pitching his fourth shutout since being recalled from Wichita in mid-June.

Ronnie Kline, Willey's pitching opponent, also went all the way, but runs in the first and seventh innings were enough to saddle him with his 13th defeat against 12 victories. He allowed nine hits.

Willey had to pitch his way out of four jams before gaining his ninth triumph against four defeats. Twice, in the sixth and eighth, the Pirates filled the bases with their big power man, Frank Thomas, at the plate. But in the sixth, Thomas popped out and Bill Mazeroski flied out, and in the eighth, Thomas bounced into a double play.

Chris Crawford Upsets MacKay

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—Chris Crawford, a flaxen-haired collegian from Piedmont, Calif., blasted fifth-seeded Barry MacKay to the sidelines Sunday in a second round shocker of the U. S. National Tennis Championships. The score was 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

It was a costly defeat for the big, stoop-shouldered Davis Cup sensation from Dayton, Ohio, whom Uncle Sam was looking to for recovery of the famed trophy from Australia.

Most of the U. S. tennis brass, including Davis Cup Captain Perry Jones, was in the gallery of 8,000 which saw MacKay's mighty game lose its sting in a rash of double faults and errors.

Crawford, 19, who this fall enters Stanford University, climaxed his victory with a service ac

Cub Homers Sink Cards

Chicago Hits Three In 8 To 5 Triumph

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Chicago Cub hitting, including three home runs, one of them a three-run job by Chuck Tanner, produced an 8-5 victory over the Cardinals here Sunday.

The Cubs needed three pitchers in the loosely played contest. The Red Birds used four. The victory went to Taylor Phillips who relieved starter Moe Drabowsky in the third. He in turn left in favor of Bill Henry in the seventh. It left Phillips with a 7-8 record.

Chicago took a two-run first inning lead. Tony Taylor's lead-off homer was followed by successive walks to Ernie Banks and Walt Moryn and a single by Lee Walls which scored Banks.

In the third, Tanner, batting for Walls who had been thumbed out of the game, hit his three-run homer. Walls was ejected by Umpire Frank Secory for claiming too heatedly he had been hit by a pitched ball. Banks was on with a single and Moryn was safe because of Don Blasingame's fumble when Tanner stepped up.

Turley Gets Credit For Win No. 20

Washington Stages 4-Run Rally In 9th But Yanks Win, 7-6

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bob Turley needed some late-inning help from three relief pitchers Sunday but the New York Yankees emerged 7-6 victors over the Washington Senators and Turley became the major leagues' first 20-game winner of the season. The celler-dwelling Senators rallied for four runs in the ninth inning but fell short.

The Senators went into the ninth trailing by 7-2. However Albie Pearson, Roy Sievers and Clint Courtney singled for a run before reliever Johnny Kucks could retire a batter. Then, with one out, Norm Zauchin smacked his 13th homer of the season into the left field seats and the three runs which scored on the blast put the Senators within a run of the league-leaders.

Murray Dickson was brought and his first act was to hit Ed Yost with a pitch. After Dickson got Rocky Bridges on a fly for the second out, he walked pinch-hitter Ken Aspromonte and the potential tying run was at second and the game-winner at first.

However, Herb Plews ended the game by tapping to first baseman Bill Skowron, with the 41-year-old Yankee pitcher covering the bag and barely beating Plews there.

Wynn Blanks Detroit, 3-0

White Sox Hurler Notches 12th Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Early Wynn allowed only two hits and fanned seven as he hurled the Chicago White Sox to a 3-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers Sunday.

It was the veteran's fourth shutout of the season and No. 36 of his career, second only to Warren Spahn's 43 among the active pitchers in the game. The victory was his 12th.

Only hits off Wynn were a clean line drive single to center by Johnny Groth in the third inning and another ground single to right by pinch batter Harvey Kuenn in the ninth.

Balk Aids Bosox To Beat Orioles

Piersall's Single Decides Game, 3-2

BOSTON (AP) — Boston center fielder Jim Piersall singled after a critical balk call on pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm in the seventh inning Sunday for a 3-2 Red Sox victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Frank Malzone opened the Boston seventh by beating out a high hopper to third and was forced by Jackie Jensen. First base Umpire Ed Runge called a balk on Wilhelm which drew loud but unheeded protests from Hoyt and Manager Paul Richards.

Jensen strolled down to second and after Dick Gernert fouled out, Piersall drilled the deciding single to right.

Tom Brewer, victim of two unearned runs in the fifth inning, allowed eight hits en route to his 10th triumph in 20 decisions this season. Wilhelm held the Sox to five safeties. His record is 2-8. The knuckleball ace was making his first start for the Orioles since his acquisition from Cleveland.

Cincy Defeats Phillies Twice

Redlegs Take Six In Row, 6-2 And 7-3

CINCINNATI (UPI)—John Temple, Ed Bailey and Jerry Lynch provided the power and Harvey Haddix and Don Newcombe the pitching as the Cincinnati Redlegs beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-2, and 7-3, to run their winning streak to six games Sunday.

The six-game winning streak is the longest of the year for the Redlegs.

Lynch unloaded a three-run homer in the seventh inning of the finale to break a 3-3 tie. Don Newcombe scattered 14 hits to even his record since coming to the Redlegs at 5-5. He is 5-11 for the season.

Two home runs by Carl Sawatski produced two Philly runs, and Richie Ashburn, Hemus and Wallie Post singled for another to give the Phils an early lead.

In the opener, the Redlegs broke open a 1-1 tie with four unearned runs off Ray Semproch in the sixth. A walk, Bailey's infield single and successive wild throws by Solley Hemus and Ed Bouchee allowed George Crowe to score from first base on the same play. Another walk and Willie Jones' error filled the bases whereupon Temple doubled home three runs.

Bailey's home runs, in the fourth and eighth innings, gave him 10 for the season.

Richardson, Olmedo Reach Third Round

Anderson, Fraser Also Score Wins

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Two of Uncle Sam's Davis Cup hopefuls, Ham Richardson and Alex Olmedo, breezed into the third round of the U.S. Tennis Championships under wraps Sunday along with a pair of Australia's heaviest guns, Mal Anderson and Neale Fraser.

Richardson, young senatorial aide from Arlington, Va., who is making a competitive comeback after completing a Rhodes scholarship at Oxford, turned back William Bond, a promising 16-year-old from LaJolla, Calif., 6-4, 7-5, 6-3.

Olmedo, the Peruvian from the University of Southern California, erased Gregory Grant of San Marino, Calif., 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

Anderson, the stringy Queenslander who is favored to repeat as men's champion, won over a 35-year-old Peruvian businessman, Eduardo Buse, 6-1, 6-2, 7-5.

Fraser had a featured role in the stadium where his left-handed shots and lightning reflexes proved too much for Britain's No. 1 Davis Cup ace, Michael Davies, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3.

Mrs. Dorothy Knode of Forest Hills, seeded No. 2 behind Althea Gibson, and Britain's Ann Haydon, No. 3, were the only ranked women players in action. Mrs. Knode won over Joan Sullivan of Belmont, Mass., 6-0, 6-4. Miss Haydon crushed Helen [illegible] of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-2, 6-3.

Giants Wallop Dodgers, 14-2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Giants thumped Los Angeles 14-2 Sunday for San Francisco's third victory in a row over the fading Dodgers. Bob Schmidt's grand slam homer and Willie Mays' two-run blast were the key blows in a 15-hit Giant attack.

The slaughter before a crowd of 20,744 in sunny Seals Stadium was the 13th Giant victory in 17 Dodger games and moved the San Franciscans into a second place National League tie with Pittsburgh.

Four Dodger pitchers were unsuccessful in checking the barrage as Giants' slow baller Stu Miller limited the losers to eight hits. It was his fourth victory.

Schmidt, along with his first inning grand slammer, drove in two more runs with a sacrifice fly and a single.

Indians Win In Eleventh

Beat Athletics, 3-2, Colavito Hits Pair

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Two home runs by Rocky Colavito and one by Minnie Minoso gave the Cleveland Indians a 3-2 victory over the Kansas City Athletics in 11 innings Sunday. Morrie Martin paved the way for Minoso's clincher by retiring the side after Ray Narleski had loaded the bases with one out in the 10th.

The victory went to Martin, making the second in two days he has picked up from the A's for a 2-0 record.

Ralph Terry, now 8-10, was the loser, going all the way and holding the Indians to only five hits.

Terry had two out in the ninth when Colavito hit his second homer to tie up the game. Rocky also homered with two out in the seventh.

Senators Near Flag

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Southpaw Ross Grimsley turned in a sparkling five-hit shutout Sunday as the Charleston Senators posted a 2-0 victory over Wichita.

The triumph pushed the Senators another step closer to the American Assn. pennant. They now need any combination of three victories or Denver defeats for the flag.

Barrelville And Zihlman Win Pen-Mar Playoff Openers

Raines Beats Deremer In 2-1 Contest

Limits Merchants To 3 Hits; Zippers Beat Sluggers, 8-3

Bobby Raines and Glenn Deremer hooked up in a pitchers' battle for the fifth time this season and the former was returned the winner yesterday as Barrelville's Old Exports defeated the Hyndman Merchants at Hyndman by the score of 2-1 in opener of the playoff semi-finals in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

In the other semi-final staged yesterday at Grantsville, the Zihlman Zippers scored eight runs in the 7th and 9th innings to score a come-from-behind victory over the Grantsville Sluggers. The score was 8-3.

Teams Clash Today

The scene of action shifts today to Barrelville and Zihlman where the second games of the series are scheduled to get under way at 2:30 p.m.

Bobby Raines tossed a three-hitter at Hyndman to defeat the Merchants for the second time this year. He had lost three previous decisions in duels with Deremer. Glenn was nicked for a dozen safeties. Each pitcher struck out four.

Raines had a shutout going until the ninth inning. Gene Stair grounded to shortstop Clarence "Pooch" Lewis and when the latter threw wildly to first base the hitter completed the circuit.

Woodson's Hit Decides

Barrelville scored its first run in the fourth when Lewis singled, moved to second on Jim Eckard's sacrifice and came home on a single by George Miller. What proved to be the deciding tally was scored in the top of the ninth when Miller led off with a hit and registered at home in a timely two-base belt by Woody Woodson.

Lewis played a bangup game at short for the Old Exports and robbed the Merchants of several base hits with his sparkling fielding. His stab of Cliff Clites' line drive in the second inning was the best play of the game.

Miller paced the Barrelville stickers with three hits. Woodson banged a two-bagger and single and Lewis and Eckard garnered two singles each. Lou Hite accounted for two of Hyndman's three hits—singles in the second and fifth—and Clay Leydig obtained the other safety in the 7th.

Trailing 3-0, Zihlman coupled four hits with a pair of fielder's choices and a base on balls for five runs in the 7th to spill Grantsville. The Zippers added three more tallies in the ninth to win by a comfortable margin.

Haberlein Is Victor

Lefty Bill Haberlein went the distance for Zihlman, gave up only five hits and fanned seven. One of the Grantsville blows was Junie Perry's homer in the third inning, his 14th circuit wallop this year. Joe Wengerd had two safeties for the Garrett countians.

Zihlman racked up a total of 15 hits, including a double and two singles by Jack Anderson and three bingles by Ronnie Diehl. Warnick blasted a triple and single and Johnny Johnson also had a pair.

Bobby Dawson Injured

Robert Keister, who started on the mound for Grantsville, was tagged with the loss. Bobby Dawson, his successor, was injured in a play at the plate in the 6th inning and was forced to retire. Dawson was covering the plate on a passed ball when he was hurt in a collision. Earl Gracie finished on the slab for the Sluggers. Scores:

Wheeling Stages Ten Races Today

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—Some 10,000 fans are expected Monday at Wheeling Downs for the only matinee program of its summer meeting.

The 10-race program will be headed by the $2,500 Labor Day Handicap with 5-year-old Attempt favored in the seven-furlong sprint.

Track officials said lights in the back stretch would burn throughout the afternoon schedule which opens at 1 p.m. e.s.t. It was explained that this would eliminate any possibility of the thoroughbreds being startled by shadows from the light standards.

Negotiations Fail, Waterford Races Will Be Picketed

CHESTER, W. Va. (UPI) — A union official said Sunday picket lines would be set up Sept. 8 at the opening of the fall horse race meet at Waterford Park.

James O'Hallaran, representing the AFL-CIO, said picketing would be by members of the striking mutuels clerks. They are members of Union Local No. 101, an AFL-CIO affiliate.

Negotiations between union and track officials collapsed Friday when an offer by management of 40 of the 140 mutuel window jobs to the 97 strikers was refused.

O'Hallaran said several crafts had agreed to honor the picket line when it was set up at the track. He also said drivers for a Pittsburgh transit firm would let passengers out of their buses outside the lines.

Racing May Have Fourth Millionaire

Round Table Could Top Nashua's Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unless there is an upset, thoroughbred racing will have a new money-winning champion or its fourth equine millionaire after the completion of the $100,000 added Washington Handicap at Arlington Park Monday.

Ten, including millionaire Round Table and Swoon's Son, who is nearing the million buck mark, have been named for the mile race on the main course. If all start, the race will gross $140,690.

A victory for either Round Table or Swoon's Son would add $95,175 to their bankroll. For Round Table it would mean total earnings of $1,310,289 and send him past all-time champ Nashua, who retired with $1,288,565 in the bank. For Swoon's Son, it would boost his total to $1,033,779, a figure surpassed only by Nashua, Round Table and Citation.

New Football Coach At UCLA Suffers Complete Exhaustion

Dickerson Admitted To Medical Center

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Officials at UCLA disclosed Sunday that the Bruins' new head football coach, George Dickerson, was admitted to the UCLA Medical Center Saturday suffering complete exhaustion.

A UCLA spokesman said the 45-year-old coach, the center of a football recruiting controversy during the last week, is suffering with a severe case of nervous exhaustion and will be given a complete physical checkup.

Dickerson took over the coaching reins at UCLA after the death of Henry (Red) Sanders Aug. 14.

Last weekend Dickerson kicked up quite a fuss when he traveled to Berkeley and walked into the office of football coach Pete Elliott at the University of California, demanding a showdown on Cal's football recruiting methods.

Dickerson claimed that a Cal representatve had been recruiting illegally in Southern California, making cash offers to UCLA football prospects. Elliott denied the charges.

Baseball Writers See Collapse Of Top Minor Loops

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A national survey of minor league baseball writers showed Sunday most of the scribes believe their loops are about ready to collapse for lack of financial support.

A Nashville Tennessean survey covered writers and editors around six of the top minor league baseball circuits — International League, American Assn., Southern Assn., Texas League, Western League and South Atlantic League.

Of 43 newsmen responding to the questionnaire 28 told the Tennessean they believe minor league baseball as we know it today is through.

Most of the blame in one form or other was placed on major league shoulders.

Captains Named

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Fullback Sam Sirianni of Clarksburg and lineman Vernon Howell of Huntington were named Sunday as co-captains of the 1958 Marshall College football team.

Marshall will open its pre-season drills Monday morning when Coach Herb Royer will greet a squad of 47 players. The twice-a-day practice sessions will continue through Sept. 13.

Barrelville And Zihlman Win Pen-Mar Playoff Openers

Raines Beats Deremer In 2-1 Contest

Limits Merchants To 3 Hits; Zippers Beat Sluggers, 8-3

Bobby Raines and Glenn Deremer hooked up in a pitchers' battle for the fifth time this season and the former was returned the winner yesterday as Barrelville's Old Exports defeated the Hyndman Merchants at Hyndman by the score of 2-1 in opener of the playoff semi-finals in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

In the other semi-final staged yesterday at Grantsville, the Zihlman Zippers scored eight runs in the 7th and 9th innings to score a come-from-behind victory over the Grantsville Sluggers. The score was 8-3.

Teams Clash Today

The scene of action shifts today to Barrelville and Zihlman where the second games of the series are scheduled to get under way at 2:30 p.m.

Bobby Raines tossed a three-hitter at Hyndman to defeat the Merchants for the second time this year. He had lost three previous decisions in duels with Deremer. Glenn was nicked for a dozen safeties. Each pitcher struck out four.

Raines had a shutout going until the ninth inning. Gene Stair grounded to shortstop Clarence "Pooch" Lewis and when the latter threw wildly to first base the hitter completed the circuit.

Woodson's Hit Decides

Barrelville scored its first run in the fourth when Lewis singled, moved to second on Jim Eckard's sacrifice and came home on a single by George Miller. What proved to be the deciding tally was scored in the top of the ninth when Miller led off with a hit and registered at home in a timely two-base belt by Woody Woodson.

Lewis played a bangup game at short for the Old Exports and robbed the Merchants of several base hits with his sparkling fielding. His stab of Cliff Clites' line drive in the second inning was the best play of the game.

Miller paced the Barrelville stickers with three hits. Woodson banged a two-bagger and single and Lewis and Eckard garnered two singles each. Lou Hite accounted for two of Hyndman's three hits—singles in the second and fifth—and Clay Leydig obtained the other safety in the 7th.

Trailing 3-0, Zihlman coupled four hits with a pair of fielder's choices and a base on balls for five runs in the 7th to spill Grantsville. The Zippers added three more tallies in the ninth to win by a comfortable margin.

Haberlein Is Victor

Lefty Bill Haberlein went the distance for Zihlman, gave up only five hits and fanned seven. One of the Grantsville blows was Junie Perry's homer in the third inning, his 14th circuit wallop this year. Joe Wengerd had two safeties for the Garrett countians.

Zihlman racked up a total of 15 hits, including a double and two singles by Jack Anderson and three bingles by Ronnie Diehl. Warnick blasted a triple and single and Johnny Johnson also had a pair.

Bobby Dawson Injured

Robert Keister, who started on the mound for Grantsville, was tagged with the loss. Bobby Dawson, his successor, was injured in a play at the plate in the 6th inning and was forced to retire. Dawson was covering the plate on a passed ball when he was hurt in a collision. Earl Gracie finished on the slab for the Sluggers. Scores:

Wheeling Stages Ten Races Today

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—Some 10,000 fans are expected Monday at Wheeling Downs for the only matinee program of its summer meeting.

The 10-race program will be headed by the $2,500 Labor Day Handicap with 5-year-old Attempt favored in the seven-furlong sprint.

Track officials said lights in the back stretch would burn throughout the afternoon schedule which opens at 1 p.m. e.s.t. It was explained that this would eliminate any possibility of the thoroughbreds being startled by shadows from the light standards.

Negotiations Fail, Waterford Races Will Be Picketed

CHESTER, W. Va. (UPI) — A union official said Sunday picket lines would be set up Sept. 8 at the opening of the fall horse race meet at Waterford Park.

James O'Hallaran, representing the AFL-CIO, said picketing would be by members of the striking mutuels clerks. They are members of Union Local No. 101, an AFL-CIO affiliate.

Negotiations between union and track officials collapsed Friday when an offer by management of 40 of the 140 mutuel window jobs to the 97 strikers was refused.

O'Hallaran said several crafts had agreed to honor the picket line when it was set up at the track. He also said drivers for a Pittsburgh transit firm would let passengers out of their buses outside the lines.

Racing May Have Fourth Millionaire

Round Table Could Top Nashua's Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unless there is an upset, thoroughbred racing will have a new money-winning champion or its fourth equine millionaire after the completion of the $100,000 added Washington Handicap at Arlington Park Monday.

Ten, including millionaire Round Table and Swoon's Son, who is nearing the million buck mark, have been named for the mile race on the main course. If all start, the race will gross $140,690.

A victory for either Round Table or Swoon's Son would add $95,175 to their bankroll. For Round Table it would mean total earnings of $1,310,289 and send him past all-time champ Nashua, who retired with $1,288,565 in the bank. For Swoon's Son, it would boost his total to $1,033,779, a figure surpassed only by Nashua, Round Table and Citation.

New Football Coach At UCLA Suffers Complete Exhaustion

Dickerson Admitted To Medical Center

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Officials at UCLA disclosed Sunday that the Bruins' new head football coach, George Dickerson, was admitted to the UCLA Medical Center Saturday suffering complete exhaustion.

A UCLA spokesman said the 45-year-old coach, the center of a football recruiting controversy during the last week, is suffering with a severe case of nervous exhaustion and will be given a complete physical checkup.

Dickerson took over the coaching reins at UCLA after the death of Henry (Red) Sanders Aug. 14.

Last weekend Dickerson kicked up quite a fuss when he traveled to Berkeley and walked into the office of football coach Pete Elliott at the University of California, demanding a showdown on Cal's football recruiting methods.

Dickerson claimed that a Cal representatve had been recruiting illegally in Southern California, making cash offers to UCLA football prospects. Elliott denied the charges.

Baseball Writers See Collapse Of Top Minor Loops

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A national survey of minor league baseball writers showed Sunday most of the scribes believe their loops are about ready to collapse for lack of financial support.

A Nashville Tennessean survey covered writers and editors around six of the top minor league baseball circuits — International League, American Assn., Southern Assn., Texas League, Western League and South Atlantic League.

Of 43 newsmen responding to the questionnaire 28 told the Tennessean they believe minor league baseball as we know it today is through.

Most of the blame in one form or other was placed on major league shoulders.

Captains Named

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Fullback Sam Sirianni of Clarksburg and lineman Vernon Howell of Huntington were named Sunday as co-captains of the 1958 Marshall College football team.

Marshall will open its pre-season drills Monday morning when Coach Herb Royer will greet a squad of 47 players. The twice-a-day practice sessions will continue through Sept. 13.

"Can I use him next?"

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(While Louella O. Parsons is in Hawaii her column will be written by Dorothy Manners)

HOLLYWOOD — Really funny idea in "The Kayo Comic," the picture Donald O'Connor is being paged for by Robert Webb of 20th: It's the story of a young welterweight boxer with such natural talent as a comedian, the laughs he gets all but foul up his championship career. And it isn't the life of Art Aragon!

Webb is setting up his own independent company to produce and direct this property written by Phil Garris. Two hits to Webb's credit are Elvis Presley's "Love Me Tender" and "The Way To Gold."

About Don as a fighter — he works out in the gym several days a week and is already considered one of the best amateur boxers.

Christine Carere's attractive French husband, Philippe Nicaud, left for Paris Saturday, but not before 20th had talked with him about co-starring with his wife in "Colors of the Day." The Romain Gary novel has a French background.

Philippe has to be in Paris Tuesday to resume in the Jacques Duval play he closed to visit Christine in Hollywood. The newlyweds have been separated by distance three-quarters of their married life. She has three weeks more on "Mardi Gras" before joining her husband in Paris for a three months stay. "I haven't even seen our brand new apartment," wails the pert Parisienne who clicked so big in "A Certain Smile."

Paul Newman and director Vincent Sherman are hitting it off like brothers at Warner's getting "The Philadelphian" ready to roll. Agreeing to make the picture originally in order to get permission to star in Tennessee Williams' "Sweet Bird of Youth" on Broadway, Paul is now genuinely enthused. He's showing up daily in Sherman's offices to look at tests and sit in on casting.

One of the tests they both like is Diana Brewster's. She's been in several of the "Mavericks" but never tackled anything as dramatic as the part of the society girl who ages from 20 to 60.

Gordon MacRae's 14-year-old daughter, Meredith Lynn, lent her expert attention to his single platter, "Secret," pronounced it a sure-to-be smash with the 'teen-age crowd and said, "Thank Heavens, dad, you've finally come up with a hit after all these years!"

By way of celebrating, Meredith is shelling out of her own funds to give a party for her father to which her 'teen-age friends will be invited as well as adults at the California Racquet Club. "I guess you'd call it a coke - cocktail party," she explains, "I can't afford dinner."

Marie McDonald, back from a one-day visit to the bedside of Dr. Margaret Chung, reports that Dr. Chung is gravely ill in the Franklin Hospital in San Francisco. The noted Chinese doctor was instrumental in having the bill which brought Gen. Chennault's Flying Tigers into the U.S. Air Force introduced into Congress in the early days of World War II. She is one of the most revered women in San Francisco.

Van Cliburn long - distanced Eddie Fisher that he will do a guest spot on Eddie's TV show as soon as the State Department can clear him from some of his goodwill concerts. Eddie and the young genius pianist have become a mutual admiration society, Van telling Eddie, "I never miss one of your shows when I can get to a TV set."

Meanwhile, Fisher is in the East, lining up talent after signing Grey Lockwood, formerly with Perry Como, to direct. Suspended by MGM or not, you can bet Debbie Reynolds will be one of his first guests.

Hollywood in shorts:

The doctor has told Peggy Lee, who has really had a siege with mononucleosis, she'll be up and around in two weeks.

Red Button's P.A. in New York with "Imitation General" tied up traffic around Times Square for two hours.

Judy Garland's engagement at Orchestra Hall has a bigger advance sale than the Moiseyev troupe.

Keely Smith and Louis Prima, those wonder people, will do "Pocahontas" as a TV spec this season, Keely making as the Indian maid, of course.

Going the glamour route the whole way, Eva Marie Saint has a new short hairdo styled by Sidney Guilaroff for "North by Northwest."

Louis Jordan promised Dinah Shore he'll dance with her, sing with her, emote with her and anything she likes on her first show of the season except "play a hand-kissing Frenchman!"

Angel's Flight, in Los Angeles, is said to be the shortest railroad in the world. It is less than 400 feet long, but carries more than six thousand persons daily up and down the face of Bunker hill.

Motorists toss some 100 thousand tons of trash along America's highways on an average holiday weekend.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠A 10 9 4 3 ♥Q6 5 4 2 ♦8 6 ♣5

Your partner has opened with one heart. What is your response?

A.—Four hearts. Best results on hands of this type are usually attained by an immediate raise to game. Prospects for fulfillment are good and the guess, if any, is put squarely up to the opposition.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠K8 4 3 ♥5 4 ♦10 5 4 ♣K 10 5 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 spades	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. While this hand contains the minimum in high cards you should carry on, though partner's raise is not forcing. The club fit is the determining factor. Reverse the hearts and clubs and a doubtful situation would exist.

Q. 3—Opponents have 60 part score and as South you hold:

♠K 9 7 5 3 ♥6 2 ♦A 9 3 ♣10 5 2

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 no trump	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. Under normal conditions, holding more than six points, you should pass the no trump bid for penalties, but in this particular case it pays to be a little more cautious. Since one no trump puts the enemy "out" partner may have stretched a point to double in order to put up some sort of fight. You should therefore, keep your powder dry by bidding two spades.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠6 2 ♥A K 10 9 8 ♦7 5 3 ♣K 9 5

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 heart	1 spade
1 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has announced a strong hand by making a free rebid of one no trump after the adverse spade bid. The suggested call is a raise of the no trump. With a timid partner perhaps to three no trump, with most partners a raise to two no trump would suffice.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠8 ♥Q J 8 6 ♦A 9 7 4 3 ♣K 10 5

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. This hand has splendid distribution. l values and if a good suit fit can be found a slam is not at all remote. Partner's jump to two no trump does not deny possession of a four card heart suit and the temporizing bid is strongly recommended.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠A 8 4 ♥A K 8 3 ♦A J 7 ♣QJ 8

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 clubs	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. The four card major which you suppressed on the first round should be announced at this point. This is preferable to showing the diamond support. If the bidding progresses constructively, diamond support may be shown belatedly.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠A 6 ♥K J 10 8 ♦AJ 9 6 ♣10 7 4

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 club	Pass	1 spade	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. This is very apt to be a part score hand and in order not to give the opposition clear sailing we would act at once. It may be too dangerous to compete later.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠Q 10 8 6 2 ♥K 10 4 ♦AJ 8 3 ♣Q

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—This hand requires special treatment. We would wish to insist upon game, but would make allowances for the hand to be played at either spades or no trump. The suggested call is three diamonds. (Two diamonds would not be forcing after a one no trump rebid). If partner prefers spades, we would be inclined to play for game in the major.

Hollywood in shorts:

The doctor has told Peggy Lee, who has really had a siege with mononucleosis, she'll be up and around in two weeks.

Red Button's P.A. in New York with "Imitation General" tied up traffic around Times Square for two hours.

Judy Garland's engagement at Orchestra Hall has a bigger advance sale than the Moiseyev troupe.

Keely Smith and Louis Prima, those wonder people, will do "Pocahontas" as a TV spec this season, Keely making as the Indian maid, of course.

Going the glamour route the whole way, Eva Marie Saint has a new short hairdo styled by Sidney Guilaroff for "North by Northwest."

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠A 10 9 4 3 ♥Q6 5 4 2 ♦8 6 ♣5

Your partner has opened with one heart. What is your response?

A.—Four hearts. Best results on hands of this type are usually attained by an immediate raise to game. Prospects for fulfillment are good and the guess, if any, is put squarely up to the opposition.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠K8 4 3 ♥5 4 ♦10 5 4 ♣K 10 5 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 spades	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. While this hand contains the minimum in high cards you should carry on, though partner's raise is not forcing. The club fit is the determining factor. Reverse the hearts and clubs and a doubtful situation would exist.

Q. 3—Opponents have 60 part score and as South you hold:

♠K 9 7 5 3 ♥6 2 ♦A 9 3 ♣10 5 2

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 no trump	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. Under normal conditions, holding more than six points, you should pass the no trump bid for penalties, but in this particular case it pays to be a little more cautious. Since one no trump puts the enemy "out" partner may have stretched a point to double in order to put up some sort of fight. You should therefore, keep your powder dry by bidding two spades.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠6 2 ♥A K 10 9 8 ♦7 5 3 ♣K 9 5

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 heart	1 spade
1 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has announced a strong hand by making a free rebid of one no trump after the adverse spade bid. The suggested call is a raise of the no trump. With a timid partner perhaps to three no trump, with most partners a raise to two no trump would suffice.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠8 ♥Q J 8 6 ♦A 9 7 4 3 ♣K 10 5

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. This hand has splendid distributional values and if a good suit fit can be found a slam is not at all remote. Partner's jump to two no trump does not deny possession of a four card heart suit and the temporizing bid is strongly recommended.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠A 8 4 ♥A K 8 3 ♦A J 7 ♣QJ 8

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 clubs	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. The four card major which you suppressed on the first round should be announced at this point. This is preferable to showing the diamond support. If the bidding progresses constructively, diamond support may be shown belatedly.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠A 6 ♥K J 10 8 ♦AJ 9 6 ♣10 7 4

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 club	Pass	1 spade	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. This is very apt to be a part score hand and in order not to give the opposition clear sailing we would act at once. It may be too dangerous to compete later.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠Q 10 8 6 2 ♥K 10 4 ♦AJ 8 3 ♣Q

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—This hand requires special treatment. We would wish to insist upon game, but would make allowances for the hand to be played at either spades or no trump. The suggested call is three diamonds. (Two diamonds would not be forcing after a one no trump rebid). If partner prefers spades, we would be inclined to play for game in the major.

In Memoriam

In memory of Harry Thomas Shryock, who was killed 2 years ago on Sept. 1, 1956.

Memories of him will always be in our thoughts,
He will always be missed because of the bright place
He filled in our hearts.

Sadly missed by his Mother, Father and sister, Doris; also his many friends and relatives.

In Memoriam

In memory of Harry Thomas Shryock, who was killed 2 years ago on Sept. 1, 1956.
Memories of him will always be in our thoughts,
He will always be missed because of the bright place
He filled in our hearts.
Sadly missed by his Mother, Father and sister, Doris; also his many friends and relatives.

Recluse Was Rich

BLACKPOOL, England (UPI)—Mahmoud Abdul Baki was known for years here as an old Persian recluse who lived on nuts, melons and pears and always wore the same shabby blue suit. But today it was revealed that when he died in December he left $244,232, of which $110,220 has been claimed by the Iranian government for death duties. Two daughters in Iran are claiming the remainder of his money.

Area Fatality Mars Labor Day Weekend

Four Persons Hurt In Separate Mishap

An elderly New York woman was killed in a highway accident Saturday in nearby Somerset County Pa., to become the Tri-State area's first traffic fatality of the Labor Day weekend, and a two-car crash at the intersection of Routes 220 and 53 in Cresaptown yesterday injured four persons, including a 29-year-old Rawlings resident.

Victim of the fatal mishap which occurred on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Saturday afternoon was Mrs. Lulu Stallman, 38, of Elmhurst, N. Y. She died Saturday evening in Bedford County Memorial Hospital of injuries which included a fractured pelvis, fractures of her face and lacerations of her lip and chin.

The car in which Mrs. Stallman was a passenger was being driven by Edward Barritt, also of Elmhurst. The westbound Barritt vehicle rammed into the rear of the car of Edward Janicki, New Kensington, Pa., who had stopped due to a tieup at the east end of the Allegheny Mountain Tunnel.

Also injured in the crash was Anna Martin, 46, of Elmhurst, who was admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital with chest injuries.

Most seriously hurt in the Cresaptown accident yesterday morning was Henry Morgan, 61, of Millsboro, Pa., who was admitted to Memorial Hospital with severe multiple lacerations of the scalp and undetermined internal injuries. His condition was described as "fair."

His wife, Mrs. Bessie Morgan, 55, who was a passenger in the front seat of the vehicle being driven by her husband, suffered a possible hip injury in the mishap, and Mrs. Elizabeth Clelland, 70, of Waynesburg, Pa., sustained possible chest injuries.

Herbert C. Liller, Rawlings, driver of the other car, was also taken to Memorial Hospital, where he was X-rayed, treated, and released. Hospital attaches said he had a broken nose, facial lacerations and abrasions of the left knee.

State Trooper Carlton W. Lewis, who investigated, said that the accident occurred when Morgan, traveling south on Route 53, failed to heed a stop sign and red blinker signal, and pulled onto McMullen Highway into the path of the south-bound vehicle being driven by Liller.

The Liller vehicle struck Morgan's car, which spun around in the highway and finally came to a stop against a house on the left side of the road.

Prepares For Ceramics Show

Mrs. Thelma Niland of this city is shown with several typical examples of her ceramics which she will exhibit at the Mountain Playhouse in Jennerstown, Pa., for three weeks starting September 14. This will be the first ceramics show at the playhouse, where traditional art has been featured each summer season.

Cumberland Woman Will Exhibit Her Ceramics At Pa. Playhouse

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Mrs. Thelma Niland, who operates one of the most unusual businesses in Cumberland, will rank as some sort of a trail blazer about the middle of September when she conducts the first ceramics show at the Mountain Playhouse in Jennerstown, Pa.

For years, the Jennerstown theatre has been presenting art shows in the room adjacent to the barn where plays are conducted during the summer and early fall. Usually they have been oil paintings or watercolors done by some artist of area prominence.

Several weeks ago, the manager of the Mountain Playhouse contacted Mrs. Niland and suggested that she present the first ceramics show at Jennerstown. She latched onto this offer in a hurry, and plans to show between 30 and 50 of her ceramic pieces in nearly Pennsylvania. Her show will run from September 14 to October 4.

Mrs. Niland plans to illustrate the various ceramic techniques, which include air brush, brush, sponge and China paint technique.

Figuring that most of the patrons of the playhouse are Pennsylvanians and more particularly Somerset countians, Mrs. Niland is preparing a collection of ceramics which she thinks will be especially interesting to those living north of the Mason-Dixon Line.

She will show such scenes as the gathering of maple syrup, and barns equipped with the traditional Pennsylvania Dutch hex signs. Her show will consist of 15-inch ash trays, 14-inch plates, lamps, vases and figurines.

Mrs. Niland first became interested in ceramics about ten years ago while living in Queens, N. Y. She was arts and crafts counselor for Girl Scouts in that borough of New York City. She and several other counselors decided to learn finger painting. A Mrs. Shaw, who had originated finger painting, taught Mrs. Niland and other Girl Scout counselors.

That first taste of finger painting took, and Mrs. Niland continued her study of ceramics at Columbia and in Greenwich Village. Ceramics continued as a rewarding creative hobby for Mrs. Niland, but nothing more until she returned to her home town of Cumberland.

She came back to Cumberland when she married James Niland, now a retired mail carrier, six years ago. She had lived in New York City for about 35 years, where she had gone first to study interior decorating. Two daughters by her first marriage still live in New York, where they work for the National Broadcasting Company in Radio City.

It was in March 1957 that Mrs. Niland finally decided to open the only ceramics shop around town. She has operated her shop at 160 North Mechanic Street since then. All of the articles on display in her little shop, she made herself.

Mrs. Niland also is a teacher of ceramics. Last fall and winter, she figures she taught about 50 persons basic ceramics. For most persons, she says, that can be done in five two-hour lessons, once a week. Her classes are conducted in her workshop where all of her materials and her kiln may be found.

Once the ceramic pieces are finished they are placed in the kiln for three days. For six hours they are subjected to 2,000-degree heat and then are allowed to cool over another 66 hours. Then the finished product is ready for display and sale.

Mrs. Niland is an outspoken advocate of ceramics as a hobby. She says people who take it up learn a creative hobby and find that many of their ceramics can be given away as Christmas gifts, thereby solving another problem.

Mrs. Niland, whose maiden name was Thelma Mudge, reports that comparatively few local people seem interested in buying ceramics. Most of her customers come in from nearby Pennsylvania.

Grantsville Girl Crowned Queen Of State Fair

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — A dark-haired, brown-eyed farm girl who wants to be a doctor was crowned Sunday as queen of the Maryland State Fair.

Sue Hershberger, a lovely 16-year-old daughter of far-off Garrett County, began her reign at ceremonies highlighting the day's program at the fairgrounds 15 miles north of Baltimore.

Her coronation by John H. Zink, president of the fair, preceded the annual parade by 4-H Club members.

"I never believed it could happen to me," she exclaimed when her selection as queen was announced Saturday night.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hershberger, she is a senior at Northern High School in Accident, Md. The family lives on a 200-acre farm at nearby Grantsville.

Sue gets A's and B's in her studies, is active in the Youth Fellowship Group of the United Church of Christ, plays piano in Sunday school, is assistant church organist and sings in the choir.

She wants to study medicine, and her first prize in the fair queen contest will give her a good start toward that goal. With the honor will go a four-year tuition scholarship and possibly additional aid at the University of Maryland.

Four other contestants attended her at the coronation ceremonies. They included Carol Ann Devaux of Cecilton, Cecil County, who won second place; Jane Marie Thompson, Parkton, Baltimore County, third; and Beverly M. Ropp of Middletown, Frederick County, and Marie Pilkerton, of Compton, St. Marys County, who finished in a tie for fourth.

More than 23,000 turned out Saturday for the opening of the fair. They included 10,321 horse racing fans who were on hand for the dedication of the track's new million dollar grandstand. Another 13,468 on the showgrounds for the opening day of the 1957 fair.

Railway Bridge Pier Structures Are Going Up

Progress Is Noted On Creek Paving

Major strides toward the construction of the Western Maryland Bridge across Wills Creek have been made during the last two weeks.

Preparations for the abutments of the span were delayed after excavations showed steel piling would be needed to support the main tracks of the railway.

Hazelwood Construction Company crews moved fast after the Corps of Engineers gave the go-ahead on the plan for placing the big steel piles.

The second section of the center pier, or main abutment, was poured on August 22. The 250 yard pour of concrete went into the 270-foot structure which is being built in the center of the creek.

It is the only structure to be built in the creek during the flood protection program, but it has been designed long and thin so it will not create a barrier to the water which will come surging down the creek during flood stages.

Piles Are Driven

Some of the piles have been driven for the third section of the main abutment.

Meanwhile, crews poured the big footer for the west abutment of the bridge last week and by Friday were building forms for the vertical section of the abutment.

Rex. E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, pointed out that the final section of the main abutment cannot be poured until the temporary railroad bridge is removed.

The weight of the trains at that point will be carried by a temporary bent. A similar situation will arise at the east abutment.

All of the piles needed for the main abutment are in place but more are needed for one wall section on the west side and upstream of the east abutment.

With favorable weather, all of the bridge abutment work that can be completed at this time will be in within two weeks. The concrete will have to be cured for 14 days before steel can go up.

Paving Progresses

Paving of the creek bed on the west side below the Baltimore Street Bridge is expected to be completed within the next two weeks.

The new traffic bridge is complete except for minor lighting work. The present temporary approach will be cut down to the old permanent grade when the temporary railroad trestle is removed.

Mr. Dexter said good progress is being made by E. J. Albrecht Company crews upstream of Market Street.

Work on slope and vertical walls downstream of the B & O Viaduct is about half done and similar progress has been made on the east side of the creek.

Paving of the creek bed between the Viaduct and the Valley Street Bridge will be completed in about two weeks. Plans for this section had to be revised last year as a result of changed conditions in the bed of the creek.

Up to 6,000 members of labor unions, their families and friends are expected to attend the basket picnic which will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. today.

Joseph D. Keenan, AFL-CIO vice president, will be the principal speaker.

Social Security Benefits Now Available For More Persons, Area Manager Says

This past Friday when President Eisenhower signed a bill which increased Social Security benefits and boosted employe and employer taxes, it also meant that benefits will become payable to a number of persons not previously eligible for payments.

James A. Gwinn, district manager of the local office, stressed that these persons must apply to their SS office before payments can start. Among the groups now eligible due to the amendments of the bill are:

Dependents of people who are 50 or over who are now getting disability insurance benefits (children under 18 or disabled; a wife of any age who has a child in her care who is entitled to benefits; a wife 62 or over; or a dependent husband 65 or over).

Disabled people 50 or over who could not qualify for benefits under the old law because they did not have as much as one and a half years of work in the three years before they were disabled. (A total of at least five years of work under the law is still required.)

Dependent parents whose son or daughter died after 1939 and who could not qualify for benefits under the old law because the son or daughter left a widow, widower or child.

Adopted children whose adopting parents began receiving retirement benefits less than three years after the adoption. (In many cases this provision will also make possible payments to the mother of the adopted child.)

A person receiving benefits who marries another person also receiving benefits can continue to receive monthly checks, or can become eligible as a dependent of the new husband or wife without waiting three years.

Some persons in situations similar to those mentioned above may have applied for benefits in the past and been notified that they did not qualify for payments.

These people should get in touch with their social district office promptly about filing new applications, said Mr. Gwinn.

Disabled workers whose social security disability benefits were reduced or were not payable because they received workmen's compensation or other federal disability payments will begin to receive the full amount of their social security disability payments. (These people do not have to file applications. Their social security checks will be started automatically with checks mailed out early in September.)

Under the amendments it is easier for certain employes of non-profit organizations and state and local government to be brought under the law. There is a slight change in the rules on how much a social security beneficiary may earn and still get social security benefit payments.

Under a new provision a person's social security will not be withheld of any month in which he neither worked in his own business nor earned over $100 in wages.

Dependent parents whose son or daughter died after 1939 and who could not qualify for benefits under the old law because the son or daughter left a widow, widower or child.

Adopted children whose adopting parents began receiving retirement benefits less than three years after the adoption. (In many cases this provision will also make possible payments to the mother of the adopted child.)

A person receiving benefits who marries another person also receiving benefits can continue to receive monthly checks, or can become eligible as a dependent of the new husband or wife without waiting three years.

Some persons in situations similar to those mentioned above may have applied for benefits in the past and been notified that they did not qualify for payments.

Disabled workers whose social security disability benefits were reduced or were not payable because they received workmen's compensation or other federal disability payments will begin to receive the full amount of their social security disability payments. (These people do not have to file applications. Their social security checks will be started automatically with checks mailed out early in September.)

Under the amendments it is easier for certain employes of non-profit organizations and state and local government to be brought under the law. There is a slight change in the rules on how much a social security beneficiary may earn and still get social security benefit payments.

Under a new provision a person's social security will not be withheld of any month in which he neither worked in his own business nor earned over $100 in wages.

Grantsville Girl Crowned Queen Of State Fair

Sue Hershberger, a lovely 16-year-old daughter of far-off Garrett County, began her reign at ceremonies highlighting the day's program at the fairgrounds 15 miles north of Baltimore.

Her coronation by John H. Zink, president of the fair, preceded the annual parade by 4-H Club members.

"I never believed it could happen to me," she exclaimed when her selection as queen was announced Saturday night.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hershberger, she is a senior at Northern High School in Accident, Md. The family lives on a 200-acre farm at nearby Grantsville.

Sue gets A's and B's in her studies, is active in the Youth Fellowship Group of the United Church of Christ, plays piano in Sunday school, is assistant church organist and sings in the choir.

She wants to study medicine, and her first prize in the fair queen contest will give her a good start toward that goal. With the honor will go a four-year tuition scholarship and possibly additional aid at the University of Maryland.

Four other contestants attended her at the coronation ceremonies. They included Carol Ann Devaux of Cecilton, Cecil County, who won second place; Jane Marie Thompson, Parkton, Baltimore County, third; and Beverly M. Ropp of Middletown, Frederick County, and Marie Pilkerton, of Compton, St. Marys County, who finished in a tie for fourth.

More than 23,000 turned out Saturday for the opening of the fair. They included 10,321 horse racing fans who were on hand for the dedication of the track's new million dollar grandstand. Another 13,468 on the showgrounds for the opening day of the 1957 fair.

Railway Bridge Pier Structures Are Going Up

Progress Is Noted On Creek Paving

Major strides toward the construction of the Western Maryland Bridge across Wills Creek have been made during the last two weeks.

Preparations for the abutments of the span were delayed after excavations showed steel piling would be needed to support the main tracks of the railway.

The second section of the center pier, or main abutment, was poured on August 22. The 250 yard pour of concrete went into the 270-foot structure which is being built in the center of the creek.

It is the only structure to be built in the creek during the flood protection program, but it has been designed long and thin so it will not create a barrier to the water which will come surging down the creek during flood stages.

Piles Are Driven

Meanwhile, crews poured the big footer for the west abutment of the bridge last week and by Friday were building forms for the vertical section of the abutment.

Rex. E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, pointed out that the final section of the main abutment cannot be poured until the temporary railroad bridge is removed.

The weight of the trains at that point will be carried by a temporary bent. A similar situation will arise at the east abutment.

All of the piles needed for the main abutment are in place but more are needed for one wall section on the west side and upstream of the east abutment.

With favorable weather, all of the bridge abutment work that can be completed at this time will be in within two weeks. The concrete will have to be cured for 14 days before steel can go up.

Paving Progresses

Paving of the creek bed on the west side below the Baltimore Street Bridge is expected to be completed within the next two weeks.

The new traffic bridge is complete except for minor lighting work. The present temporary approach will be cut down to the old permanent grade when the temporary railroad trestle is removed.

Mr. Dexter said good progress is being made by E. J. Albrecht Company crews upstream of Market Street.

Work on slope and vertical walls downstream of the B & O Viaduct is about half done and similar progress has been made on the east side of the creek.

Paving of the creek bed between the Viaduct and the Valley Street Bridge will be completed in about two weeks. Plans for this section had to be revised last year as a result of changed conditions in the bed of the creek.
